4 ARE INJURED IN BOMB BLAST AT ST. PETER'S

Explosion Terrifies Big Holy Year Crowd in Vatican City.

Vatican City, June 25 (A.P.). A holy year crowd in St. Peter's was thrown into panic at noon today by the explosion of a bomb in the portico of the basilica, which injured four persons, one seriously.

An unknown visitor left the bomb in a small valise at the booth used for checking umbrellas and other property within the portico just outside the main door and 30 feet from the holy doors.

The explosion occurred at 12:15 o'clock when a large crowd, including many pilgrims—of whom some were Americans—was surging in and out of the main doors. The last mass had just been finished.

Culprit Is Sought.

A panicky rush to get outside the portico followed upon the explosion but the exit is so large no one was hurt.

Alessandro Sartori, a Pisa engineer, was injured in one knee. He was sent to the hospital. The other three injured, also Italians, were less seriously hurt.

The papal gendarmerie and Italian police engaged in a joint investigation, questioning a number of persons in detail, but tonight had been unable to establish a motive or to find the guilty person.

Pope Blesses Injured.

The papal gendarmes, having ushered everyone outside the basilica, closed the cathedral. Later they reopened it for a large pilgrimage from central Italy, which had just been received in audience by the Pope. The area of the explosion, however, was roped off.

Cardinal Pacelli, high priest of the basilica, notified the Pope of the outrage, and the holy father sent his blessings to the injured persons. Besides Sartori, the persons hurt were Ambrogio Giani, a policeman, of Padua; Francesco Luardi, a north Italy businessman, and Miss Fannati, a stenographer.

Today's outrage was the third bomb attempt at St. Peter's in less than two years, and the first actual explosion.

Uruguay Voting Light and Quiet

Montevideo, Uruguay, June 25 (A.P.).—Reports from interior cities indicated that today's election for an assembly to rewrite the constitution was conducted quietly, except at Porongosi, where one man was killed and one wounded. Voting was light, the opposition parties abstaining from going to the polls.

Supporters of President Gabriel Terra predicted that the reform measure designed to eliminate the administrative council which until last March shared executive powers with the president, would be successful.

Immediately after the polls closed, the president ordered the release of all political prisoners.

Home Believed Fired To Cover Two Killings

Wichita, Kans., June 25 (A.P.).—The bodies of two persons, charred beyond recognition, were found by firemen in the smoldering ruins of a modest home here today.

A note police said Sam A. Dixon, 45, had left in an outbuilding led police to believe Dixon had beaten his wife to death in a quarrel, sprayed gasoline about the home, fired it and then committed suicide by shooting himself.

Martial Law

Sofia Authorities Take Over City in Search for Revolutionists.

KING BORIS 3D.

Sofia, Bulgaria, June 25 (U.P.).—The authorities declared martial law in Sofia today and summarily instituted a house-to-house search in an effort to locate alleged agitators charged with fomenting revolution against the government of King Boris III.

Police and troops occupied the telegraph, telephone and postoffices, and banned messages abroad until tonight, when the order was lifted.

Scores of suspects were arrested. All subjects were compelled to remain in their homes until 8 p. m.

The authorities suspected a plot to overthrow the government was about to break and sought certain leaders in the Macedonian opposition as the agitators.

LINDBERGH'S FLIGHT WILL INCLUDE WIFE

She Is Expected to Go on Cruise to Greenland; May Cross Ocean.

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will be accompanied by his wife on his contemplated flight to Greenland within the next two or three weeks, it was reported tonight. The flight probably will be extended across the Atlantic to Iceland and possibly to Denmark.

The journey will be made primarily to enable Lindbergh to survey thoroughly the route for the Pan-American Airways. He will study possible landing places to determine the feasibility of a northern route to Europe.

The company, of which he is technical advisor, will make its plans for a possible transatlantic schedule on the basis of his findings, it has been announced.

Col. Lindbergh is taking his wife along, it was reported, because they have learned to work well together in the air. Mrs. Lindbergh, the former Anne Morrow, is a pilot, a navigator, a radio operator, and a photographer.

The plane the Lindberghs used on their flight to China is being prepared, but pontoons, radio apparatus and other instruments have yet to be tested.

The exact itinerary has not been made public, but it is probable they will fly to Greenland with as few stops as possible. Some time will be passed in Greenland exploring the shore line and fjords for landing places, and then the flight may be continued to Iceland and Denmark.

The air line is sending a ship from Philadelphia Tuesday to act as a base for the exploratory work.

Girl Believed Kidnaped Marries Her "Abductor"

Los Angeles, June 25 (A.P.).—Fears for the safety of Miss Dorothy Jane Hollingsworth, whose disappearance from a house party in Alhambra yesterday was reported to sheriff's officers as a case of kidnaping, were set at rest today with receipt of a telegram from her to her parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. D. Hollingsworth, of San Gabriel, saying she was married at Yuma, Ariz., to her "abductor," Getchell Dow, Los Angeles accountant.

Guests at the party said Dow appeared, seized the young woman and drove away with her in his motor car.

3 Boys in 30-Foot Boat Set Out on World Tour

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—Three youths set out today in a 30-foot sloop with auxiliary motor for a journey around the world. The sloop, Juventud Filipina, was headed across the Atlantic for Bilbao, Spain. Thence the route lies through the Mediterranean and the Suez Canal, across the Indian Ocean, and from Singapore, Shanghai and Hongkong to Manila.

Aboard were Eusebio G. Moreno, Leogegario Salido and Ambrocio Taclan. They hope to reach Manila next February.

FOUR AVIATORS KILLED AS SHIP FALLS IN RIVER

Bodies of Langley Field Fliers Are Found in Sunken Plane.

Langley Field, Va., June 25 (A.P.).—Four Langley Field fliers were killed when their bombing plane crashed into the James River near Rushmere late last night. The bodies were found by searchers tonight in the sunken craft.

Capt. Milo McCune, of the Engineer office at the post, informed Langley Field officials that the bodies had been found, but said that efforts to remove them would have to await the arrival of a larger boat tomorrow morning.

In the plane last night when it left Baltimore for Langley Field were:

Second Lieut. Lewis Horvath, Air Corps Reserve, a native of Honey Creek, Wis.; Second Lieut. H. W. Mackelcan, Air Corps Reserve, a native of Baltimore; private, first class, Charles C. Sayre, jr., 22, Forty-ninth Squadron, a native of Philadelphia; private, first class, Albert C. Oliver, 33, Forty-ninth Squadron, a native of Smithfield, N. C.

Parachute Found Unopened.

The low winged bombing plane left Logan Field, Baltimore, last night at 8:30 o'clock, piloted by Lieuts. Horvath and Mackelcan. It was due at Langley last night at 11 p. m. But field officials were not unduly alarmed at its failure to arrive, until reports were received at noon today that a plane had crashed in James River.

Investigation revealed it to be the missing bomber and a man giving his address as Smithfield, said he heard the crash about 10 o'clock last night.

Lieut. E. B. Hillery and Capt. M. R. Hargraves, Langley medical officer, landed beside the damaged ship in an amphibian early this afternoon, but could find no trace of the ship's four occupants. They salvaged an unopened parachute, a traveling bag and one shoe from the plane. The naval base diving crew instituted a systematic search of the area late this afternoon.

Commission Takes Control of Leticia

Bogota, Colombia, June 25 (A.P.).—An official report tonight said Peruvian authorities have handed over the Leticia territory, in dispute since last September between Colombia and Peru, to a commission from the League of Nations which has come to South America to handle the matter.

(Associated Press.)

For the first time, the United States yesterday saw a League of Nations authority step definitely into South America to help with the settlement of a purely continental dispute as a league commission hoisted a non-American flag over the disputed Amazon port of Leticia.

A State Department engrossed in the world problems centering now in Geneva paid scant heed to the ceremony taking place on the Peru-Colombian border. American policy in the dispute was made clear when the department approved the naming of Col. Arthur Brown, an American, as a member of the commission.

Sydney-to-England Flier Down in Malay States

Alor Star, Malay States, June 25 (A.P.).—Capt. Charles T. P. Ulm who is on a projected flight from Sydney, N. S. W., to England and around the world westward, was forced down here by engine trouble. He had left Singapore today.

Boy, 16, Confesses Killing of Another

Philadelphia, June 25 (A.P.).—Arrested in the slaying of a 9-year-old boy, police said Richard Ragone, 16, confessed today and accused a gray-haired man who also is being held, of helping him.

The victim was William D. Reilly, jr., son of a telegraph company employe living in West Philadelphia. He was slain last Friday in a patch of weeds just over the city line in Delaware County. Police said an old ice pick was used to stab him 43 times in the breast.

The man accused by Ragone is Stathis Katopodis, 55, who lives alone in a West Philadelphia rooming house and has an ice cream stand near the Reilly home. He denied the charges. Both were charged with murder, although police said Ragone's statement about Katopodis was "sketchy."

'Let Me Die'

Man Begs Rescuers to Aid Suicide Attempt at Mother's Grave.

Baltimore, June 25 (A.P.).—Slashing his arm with a razor and waiting until he believed he was going to collapse, Archibald Burdette, 23, of near Kensington, Md., was said by police today to have fallen upon the grave of his mother in a local cemetery in hopes he would die there.

He was found by passing motorists who bound his arm and had him taken to a hospital here for treatment.

"Let me die; I want to be with my mother," the two men who found him quoted Burdette as saying. They told police that Burdette said he had cut his own arm while sitting in his parked car near the grave, and that when he was near the point of collapse he proceeded to his mother's grave to die. His car was found nearby, a razor blade in the front seat which was covered with blood.

Burdette's father was said by police to have confessed killing Mrs. Burdette here last December. The father was committed to the Spring Grove Hospital.

ROOSEVELT SENDS VESSEL FOR DAVIS

President, on Cruise, Eager to Learn of European Arms Situation.

Lakeman Bay, Roque Island, Me., June 25 (A.P.).—In this quiet, isolated harbor President Roosevelt dropped anchor tonight at 7:30 o'clock (Eastern standard time) to gain shelter from ever-increasing cold.

En route with President Roosevelt at sea, June 25 (A.P.).—President Roosevelt again turned his thoughts toward international problems as he sailed up the Atlantic Coast off Maine today, after a family reunion during the morning in Southwest Harbor, the night's anchorage.

He dispatched the destroyer Bernadou to Boston to pick up Norman H. Davis, who has just returned as chairman of the American delegation to the deadlocked Geneva arms parley. Davis will join him somewhere along the coast on Tuesday.

Reaching Southwest Harbor on the point of Mount Desert Island at 10:30 last night in a run through pitch darkness, Mr. Roosevelt enjoyed a brief call this morning from Mrs. Roosevelt who is going by land to the summer home at Campobello Island, N. B.

It was the first time Mrs. Roosevelt has seen the Amberjack II. With her two traveling companions, Miss Nancy Cook and Miss Marion Dickerman, of New York, she was escorted

Rum Speedboat Caught Again by Coast Guard

New Bedford, Mass., June 25 (U. P.).—The speedboat Mitzi, which Coast Guard patrol boats have seized twice before as a rumrunner, was taken to the Woods Hole Coast Guard station today after it had been caught in a thrilling, 4-mile chase last night.

Coast Guards said the speedboat failed to stop on signal and even after several bursts of machine gun fire had been sent after it as it ran into New Bedford Harbor. It was found tied up to a wharf here, empty and deserted by its crew. The owner of the boat will be charged with failure to stop on signal, Coast Guards said.

NEW PROGRAM OF GOLD BLOC HITS U. S. PLAN

[illegible] Group Agrees on [illegible] Against Price-[illegible].

London, June [illegible] Fresh efforts by the gold bloc which would be to thwart the spread to [illegible] of President Roosevelt's raising program were decided upon over the week-end.

The agreement upon this aim was reached during informal conversations among the French, Italian, Swiss, Dutch and Belgian delegations at the World Economic Conference.

The growing anxiety of the gold standard countries was expressed in these conversations, it was said on good authority, and the necessity for blocking all American moves to induce the conference to embark on "artificial" means of price-raising was stressed.

Gold Bloc Stiffens.

The gold bloc's attitude stiffened, despite the peace-making between Georges Bonnet, French finance minister, and James M. Cox, American chairman of the monetary commission, last Thursday, on reports that Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley was coming to London primarily to induce the parley to adopt a common world-wide antidepression scheme based on the depreciation of currencies.

United action is being prepared in advance of Mr. Moley's arrival this mid-week, France playing a lesser but still powerful role in the movement since M. Bonnet's promise last Thursday to help to keep the conference afloat.

Clark Thompson Wins Briggs' Congress Seat

Galveston, Tex., June 25 (A.P.).—Clark W. Thompson, 36, who first came to Texas in 1917 as an enlisted man of the Marine Corps, is the State's new representative in Congress.

He led a field of nine candidates in yesterday's Seventh District election to select a successor to Representative Clay Stone Briggs, who died recently. A Democrat, as were seven others in the race, he ran as a "business man candidate." He advocated support of President Roosevelt's economic program and repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Berlin (Monday), June 26 (A.P.).—The newspaper Montagspost said today that 60 tubes containing bacilli were found in a garden in the residential district.

'Black Shirt Gang' Chief Is Believed Under Arrest

Maryland Police Seek to Connect Prisoner in Gun Threat Case With Reign of Terror in St. Marys County Last Fall.

A leader of the dreaded "Black Shirt gang," whose string of depredations throughout St. Mary's County, Md., spread a three-weeks reign of terror last October, was believed under arrest last night, with an announcement that Charles County, Md., authorities have apprehended a man sought for several months.

The suspect, Harry Clay Pullium, 20, of Marshall Hall, Md., is being held in the La Plata jail on charges of pointing a pistol at George Cooksey, of Charles County. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff John Sprague, who said that although sought for some time, the charge grew from an incident on May 21.

Pullium, Sprague declared, is alleged to have drawn a pistol on Cooksey during a dispute. He was arrested on a warrant sworn out a short time later.

The theory that Pullium was connected with the "Black Shirt gang" of southern Maryland is being investigated, Sprague said. He intimated that the suspect is believed to have been a leader of the gang and that meetings prior to each depredation were held at his home in Marshall Hall.

For more than three weeks citizens of the peaceful community surrounding Leonardtown, Md., dared not venture onto the highways after dark. The hours of late night and early morning saw motorists and storekeepers fall victims to brutal assaults and robberies.

Terror spread as the gang continued to operate. St. Marys County authorities and a large force of Maryland State police were helpless to stop the depredations.

Scores of persons lost hundreds of dollars when waylaid on the roads by the gang traveling in a high-powered car. Their escape was always suc-

Snell Brands Session As Spree of Spending

So said Louis [illegible], secretary to the Chief Executive, in an address last night in which he characterized the recent special session as "the Congress that dared," and delivered the opinion that "the probability for an early repeal of the eighteenth amendment is brighter as each new State falls into line."

Howe asserted that characterizations of the last Congress as "merely a rubber stamp" were erroneous. Every problem, Howe said, was "intelligently and courageously debated," adding that there was hardly a night during the session when "at least seven or eight leaders of both parties" did not visit the White House.

"There have been as many as 20 people in that famous oval room, going over the country's pending legislation," he said, "and it didn't take the members of Congress long to

Appeals to Public for Aid to Make Recovery Act Succeed.

This Is No Time to Get Rich Quick, Nation's Merchants Told.

(Associated Press.)

The Nation's merchandisers were told last night by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, director of the National Recovery Administration, that "any wildcat price lifting" at this time will not be tolerated.

In a vigorous appeal for public support for the industrial control legislation, the administrator said, "Our best people understand that this is no time to get rich quick." He added that the Nation's employers wanted to cooperate more than at any time since the war.

[illegible]'s address signalized the start of a push to remove the obstacles in the path of the recovery act and to speed agreements within industry designed to increase wages and consumer power.

Schedule for Today.

Today the Cabinet Advisory Board, headed by Secretary Roper, will meet to give impetus to the move toward stabilization of industry; the Commerce Secretary's committee of 40 leading business men will hold its first meeting to draft a program on long-range planning in industry, and tomorrow the first hearing under the recovery act on the cotton textile industry's proposed code of fair competition will begin, with Johnson himself conducting.

Declaring that the granting of higher wages ordinarily would tend to result in higher prices, Johnson said, "If we do a thing like this and do not also put some control on undue price increases so that prices will not move up one bit faster than is justified by higher costs, the consuming public is going to suffer, the higher wages won't do any good, and the whole bright chance will just turn out to be a ghastly failure and another shattered hope."

"This does not mean selling below cost," the administrator added. "The first effect of this plan will be to increase business and bigger business is a better way to profit than is higher price.

Deadly Serious Matter.

"This is a deadly serious matter—this danger of runaway prices. There are still about 12,000,000 unemployed in this country, and even those who

MILE-LONG SECTION OF LOWELL BURNED

Woman Loses Life as Fire Razes Factory, Church and Six Houses.

Lowell, Mass., June 25 (U.P.).—A fire which raged over a mile-long section of this city was controlled tonight after a woman had been burned to death and a shoe factory, six houses and a small church destroyed.

In addition some 20 houses, a school and a church were damaged, and 12 persons, nine of them firemen, were injured.

Fire Chief James C. Sullivan said the blaze was of suspicious origin and will ask the State fire marshal to investigate. He placed a conservative estimate of damage at $250,000, but said the total might be more when full knowledge of the value of property destroyed was available.

The entire south end of the city was threatened by the fire and aid was summoned from 20 communities, including Boston.

The fire started in a five-story wooden factory, now vacant except for machinery. It was completely in flames when firemen reached it, and soon after they arrived there were a series of explosions, cause of which would be investigated, Fire Chief Sullivan said.

City officials opened the municipal health camp for some 15 families made homeless. Salvation Army workers were busy caring for lost children.

Miss Mary Pettie, 80, was burned fatally when she returned to her house to get some possessions from a trunk. The house, across the street from the factory, was the first to which the fire spread and was soon consumed.

Pan-American Airways To Test Northern Route

Copenhagen, Denmark, June 25 (U. P.).—The steamer Jellinge, 3,600 tons, was proceeding under full steam toward Greenland waters today, specially chartered as the mothership for three Pan-American Airways seaplanes scheduled to leave Philadelphia on Tuesday to investigate the feasibility of a North Atlantic air route to Europe.

The planes are to make a survey to determine whether such a route could prove successful commercially, going via Greenland, Iceland, Faroe Islands and Denmark.

Heavy Rains Augment Yangtze River Floods

Hankow, China, June 25 (A.P.).—Hopes that the Yangtze River flood danger had passed were blasted today when dispatches from Chungking and Ichang in the upper valley said that heavy rains had resumed and the stream in that district was again rising.

Yesterday's advices from the same cities indicated that the Yangtze flood was abating. The Hankow dikes were leaking badly today and the low lying areas of the city were flooded.

QUAKE SHAKES AREA ALONG WEST COAST

Georgetown Observatory Instruments Show Violent Shocks Far Away.

San Francisco, June 25 (A.P.).—Slight earth tremors were felt throughout a wide area of northern California today.

In Sacramento, the State, capitol, the shocks disturbed residents throughout the city, cracked windows and did minor damage to falling crockery, while in other communities the tremors were sometimes so slight as to be barely perceptible.

Reports from as widely separated cities as Truckee and Stockton told of moderate temblors. Slight shocks were felt from San Francisco to Sonora.

Prof. Perry Byerly, University of California seismologist, said shocks of "moderately large intensity began recording at the seismograph station at 12:46 p. m. (P. S. T.), and continued until 1:50 p. m. (P. S. T.).

Somewhere in the northern California region, Prof. Byerly said, he believed the shocks must have been "quite severe." He estimated the epicenter at from 110 to 150 miles from Berkeley, probably toward the East.

Bad Weather Delays Departure of Armada

Orbetello, Italy, June 25 (A.P.).—Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian air minister, decided tonight that he would not be able to leave tomorrow with his armada of 25 planes for the Chicago Exposition, because of high winds over the Ligurian Sea and unfavorable weather on the entire Alpine route.

This further postponement came after every preparation had been made for departure early tomorrow morning for the first stage to Amsterdam.

DEPRESSION LIFTING, RELIEF EXPERTS SAY

Children's Bureau Reports First Drop in Aid Since June, 1932.

(United Press.)

The first rift in the black clouds of the depression is seen by experts who have made careful studies of the relief administered to jobless and the destitute in the last three years.

The Department of Labor, through its children's bureau, brought forward figures yesterday showing that for April of this year the first decrease was registered in the amount of money spent for relief since July, 1932.

In arriving at that conclusion the bureau took a cross section of America and received reports from 1,008 relief agencies in 120 American cities. In April those agencies spent $37,156,684; in March they spent $40,635,834.

Transient Army Shrinks.

There were indications also that there has been a substantial shrinkage in the vast army of homeless transients who have been patrolling the highways since business stagnation set in. Between March and April there was a drop of 6 per cent in the 61 cities which reported on that particular phase of the relief problem.

"We must remember," said Dr. Emma Winslow, of the bureau, who analyzed the statistics, "that much of this decrease is seasonal. Relief expenditures always decline as summer approaches because more people can spend their time in the open.

"But on the whole the figures make us optimistic. This might be the definite break in the whole structure of the depression. I don't want to give the impression that prosperity is just around the corner or that all our troubles are over.

"We feel that conditions for the remainder of 1933 will not get any worse. People are still in a position of having their reserve funds depleted. There is still an enormous amount of work to be done."

States and Cities Help Most.

"States and cities are continuing to help take care of the destitute. Our April figures show that 92 per cent of the relief money spent was public funds."

As the depression lengthens into its third year, the experts are beginning to get some perspective of its ravages. July, 1932, they find, was the time when America was waging its feeblest battle against economic adversity. Funds were low and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had not begun its campaign of assistance.

Last March the tide swung the other way. Relief expenditures reached their peak then because of the bank holiday and generally unsettled conditions. The expenditures have been dropping steadily ever since.

2 States Vote Tomorrow On Repeal of Prohibition

Freeing of Grape Industry Is Issue as California Election Nears.

San Francisco, June 25 (A.P.).—Urged by antiprohibition leaders "to strike the shackles from the grape industry," Californians will vote Tuesday on the proposed repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Whether the State will join the 14 already in the repeal column will be decided at a special election at which taxation, unemployment relief and legalized horse race betting are among other issues.

A heavy vote was predicted by most officials.

Twenty-two delegates will be elected to a State convention at which the twenty-first, or repeal, amendment will be formally ratified or rejected. The delegates will be elected by the voters at large from two sets of candidates, one pledged to repeal and the other against.

The campaign, in which the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment asserted repeal would create 40,000 jobs in the grape industry, saw one former W. C. T. U. leader switch over. She is Mrs. W. B. Hamilton, wife of the collector of customs of San Francisco, who announced she will vote for repeal.

Light Balloting Is Feared as West Virginians Prepare for Poll.

Charleston, W. Va., June 25 (A.P.).—Both wet and dry forces are spending the few remaining hours before West Virginia expresses itself on repeal of the eighteenth amndment toward a common end—to get the voters out.

Leaders on both sides saw danger to their cause in a light vote Tuesday on whether the Mountain State will join 14 others which already have favored wiping out the dry amendment.

The last popular vote on the subject in West Virginia saw the State's prohibition act adopted by a vote of 164,945 to 72,603—a dry ratio of greater than 2-to-1.

Patrick D. Koonts, chairman of the United Repeal Council, predicted that even with a moderate turnout, a 50,000 to 100,000 majority against prohibition will be registered.

While refusing to make any estimate as to the margin of their expected victory, dry leaders said they are encouraged to believe "the repeal sources will not profit by a huge stay-at-home vote as they have done in so many other States."

Two slates of 20 candidates each, for and against repeal for a State convention July 26, will be voted upon.

RESERVE OFFICERS ANXIOUS TO TRAIN

More Than 90 Per Cent of Estimated Attendance Registered as Camps Open.

Baltimore, June 25 (A.P.).—Third Corps Area headquarters reported today that 90 per cent of the estimated attendance of Reserve Officers Training Corps students had registered up to Friday, the opening day of the summer camp, at the eight Army posts where training will be conducted for a period of four weeks.

The total of the students who had reported Friday were 1,131, as compared to 1,260 estimated attendance.

Corps Area headquarters said this showing is considered satisfactory, in view of the fact that a majority of the schools had closed before instructions from the War Department were received directing that camps be started as early as practicable in June.

The opening day's registration at the various camps follows:

Fort George G. WOMEN LOSE GAINS, FEMINIST DECLARES

Alice Paul Says Economic Crisis Is Forcing Sex Back to Slavery.

(Associated Press.)

That superfeminist, Alice Paul, says women are being forced by the economic situation back to the position where they were before emancipation.

In the Wilson administration, it was Miss Paul who led the marching militants on the White House for suffrage, and now she's rallying her cohorts again for a White House [illegible] July 9 in behalf of "economic equality."

"We are facing a situation where we are in danger of having [illegible] taken from us," [illegible] today. "In Europe [illegible] became keener [illegible] seen it happen before [illegible] women dropping [illegible] political positions, then [illegible] fields.

"[illegible] is happening here. We are being forced back to the position where we were before emancipation. People won't send their daughters to school if no positions are open to them. They will disappear from the colleges and the professional world."

Equal Rights Amendment.

What Miss Paul wants is enactment of the equal rights amendment supported by her feministic group, the National Woman's Party. It would make legal discriminations based on sex unconstitutional.

"One State, Delaware, has that amendment written into its constitution," she said. "To show what a safeguard it proved to womankind, three measures against employment of married women were brought up in that State this year, and all had to retire immediately because they were unconstitutional."

A little more militancy, she said, was one way of getting results on the feminine economic front.

"The more we hold banners, the more we make ourselves impressive," she said. "But banners are only important because they are backed by votes.

"We have never had in our Congress a woman put in by women," she said. "In England, women have worked together. They have backed both Lady Astor, a Conservative, and Mrs. Corbett Ashby, a Liberal, because they knew that if a feministic matter came up they would be for it. American women's clubs seem satisfied to seek culture."

"The right of women to support themselves is threatened by the enactment of legislation regulating the labor of women such as is now pending before the Illinois Legislature.

"Forced to depend upon men for their livelihood, women will again become a slave class. These minimum wage laws for women only, through which States are taking the control of their own lives out of women's hands and legislating for them as for children, are part of a widespread movement to eliminate women as competitors of men in the present desperate economic struggle."

"YES MAN" IS HATED BY CHIEF, HOWE SAYS

realize that they were at liberty to express their honest convictions. Our Chief Executive likes to be argued with over his ideas."

The chief White House aid, just before repeating that repeal of the prohibition law would remove some of the new taxes levied at the last session, asserted that "one thing is sure, the taxpayer will gain more in one pocket than he takes out of the other." Of the repeal movement, he said:

"If many more States follow the lead of Iowa, which was regarded as a doubtful State, it undoubtedly will force action in those States where the State authorities are now disposed to prevent the calling of a convention, which lies entirely with the State authorities to do or not to do as they see fit.

"For instance, should a State such as Alabama, which has loudly proclaimed itself to be entirely dry, turn wet by even the narrowest of margins on July 18, it will be extremely difficult for the dry adherents to prevent the reaching of the three-fourths majority of States at a very early date, possibly even before Congress assembles next year.

"In matters of this kind, as every politician knows, there is tremendous value in psychological effect. Continued success for any measure or candidate causes many to change their opinions hurriedly and in a most surprising way. This is known technically as climbing on the band wagon. The wet band wagon has started. If it continues its uninterrupted progress much longer, all the rear seats will be filled as well as the front ones very soon."

Referring to Mr. Roosevelt's present sailing trip, his secretary declared:

"You can accuse the President of being a clumsy navigator of the ship of state and he'll just grin and say nothing—but you tell him he don't know how to sail a 60-foot yawl into a Maine harbor against an ebb tide and you'll get an argument back which will flatten you like a pancake."

At the close of his address, Howe turned to the subject of closed banks, asserting that "about 76 per cent of all the money deposited in all banks at the time of the crash, is now available to depositors."

2 Murdered

Dispute Over How Many Coats of Paint for Car Causes Tragedy.

Chicago, June 25 (A.P.).—A trivial argument over whether an automobile needs nine or only five coats of paint resulted in the slaying of two men today and disrupted a wedding anniversary party. A tipsy uninvited guest was sought as the slayer.

Frank Dudek, 24, and George Barthelmy, 30, were the victims. With about 30 others they attended a party for Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schoeben. Dudek and his companions began a discussion of painting automobiles.

"To do the job right," Dudek said, "it takes nine coats of paint."

A stranger in shirt sleeves, apparently intoxicated, ambled into the yard and injected the remark:

"You're all wrong; it takes five coats. Just five coats. You're all wrong."

Dudek finally ordered the man to move on and when he refused, slapped him. The man disappeared, but a short time later returned and opened fire with a pistol killing both men.

LIGHT VOTE BLAMED BY ANTISALOON HEAD

McBride Says Repeal Could Have Been Prevented by "Stay-at-Homes."

(Associated Press.)

F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, said yesterday in a statement the "stay-at-home" vote in the 14 States which have approved repeal of the eighteenth amendment could have prevented that result.

In an analysis of the ballots cast, Dr. McBride said the vote was less than one-third of the total vote and less than 40 per cent of the vote cast in the last general election. In only one State, Rhode Island, he continued, was the repeal vote larger than the vote for Roosevelt for President.

"Naturally the dry stay-at-home vote was much larger than the wet stay-at-home vote," the dry leader said, "because the liquor forces had the help of political party machines, to say nothing of far more extensive newspaper and radio publicity.

"Returns so far in elections on repeal show that the dry vote is strong enough to win every remaining State," he said, "if the drys succeed in getting out as large a proportion of dry voters as the wets have gotten out in States that voted for repeal."

Jouett Shouse, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, also issued a statement. He joined with the dry leader, he said, in urging a larger popular vote because "out of every 1,000 additional votes Dr. McBride helps us to get to the polls, 60 to 80 per cent of them will be cast for repeal."

"Dr. McBride complains," Shouse said, "that the vote for repeal is not larger than it is. The way to cure that is to have every possible voter go to the polls. I am glad to join Dr. McBride in advocating the fullest and most representative vote in every State."

U. S. FACES DEFICIT OF $1,750,000,000

Friday Marks Close of Third Successive Fiscal Year Showing Shortage.

(Associated Press.)

Looking forward to improved business next year, when the Government hopes to balance its budget, the Treasury will end its 1933 fiscal year on Friday with a deficit of approximately $1,750,000,000.

It will be the third successive year when receipts have fallen below the expenditures. During the period the national debt of the Nation has increased by $5,650,076,149, to the total of $21,835,385,981 at the end of May, with prospects of another half billion dollars being added to it in June, due to the Treasury's billion-dollar financing in the middle of the month.

The $22,000,000,000 total for the year will be the nearest to the peak debt of August 31, 1919, when it reached $26,596,701,648, and the immensity of the total can be realized when it is compared with a prewar debt of $1,282,044,346 on March 13, 1917.

From last July 1 until June 22 the Government collected from all sources $2,042,450,789 and spent $3,742,457,987. During the period only one form of taxes showed any increase.

The billion-dollar tax law, which went into effect a year ago, increased the miscellaneous internal revenue collections for the year from $490,523,834 in the same period of the 1932 year to $634,633,855 in the present twelve months. The new taxes, plus a last-minute addition of beer taxes, will hold over for another year, with a one-half cent increase in the gasoline tax. With this the administration expects to make its receipts meet its expenditures. New levies also are contained in the national industrial recovery act.

Income taxes dropped off approximately $400,000,000 for the year to a total of $739,578,000, the smallest amount in recent years, while customs duties dropped from $322,857,000 in the 1932 year to $244,148,000 this year. In the more prosperous years customs duties usually amounted to around $600,000,000.

Failure of foreign nations to meet their war debt payments accounted for about $125,000,000 of the deficit for the present year.

Brothers Hunted As Desperadoes

Fort Smith, Ark., June 25 (A.P.).—The Barrow brothers, blamed for half a dozen slayings and many robberies over the Southwest, were sought tonight as the machine-gun desperadoes who shot down an officer at Alma, beat a woman who defied them and spread terror over northwest Arkansas the last two days.

Possemen believed the two had left the Ozark hills near Winslow, where they yesterday beat Mrs. John Rogers with a heavy chain when she refused to give them the keys to her motor car so that they might continue their flight.

Photographs of the brothers, Clyde and Melvin Barrow, of Dallas, were identified today by half a dozen of their victims.

300 Pilots Arrive For Chicago Races

Chicago, June 25 (A.P.).—More than 300 airplane pilots, most of them speed or stunt demons, converged on Chicago today for the American air races and attempts at new aircraft record. The meet begins Saturday.

As a sidelight to the show, there will arrive from Italy, probably during the races, an armada of 25 planes flown across the Atlantic via the Arctic route.

Among the contestants for the speed championship will be John Livingston, of Aurora, Ill., who has won more races than any other pilot. He has entered a plane which he claimed has made 280 miles an hour "without being extended."

Aimee Hutton Sent Cable To Mate Telling of 'Baby'

Evangelist's Paris Doctor Explains, However, That Hoax Was Actuated by Desire to Locate News Leak Concerning Her.

Paris, June 25 (U.P.).—Aimee Semple MacPherson Hutton, Los Angeles evangelist, admitted in a hospital tonight that she was responsible for the cable to her husband in California, announcing the birth to them of a son here.

The admission of the hoax was made through her surgeon, Dr. Henri Bove, who said he sent the message himself, "on the direct suggestion of Aimee, in an effort to ascertain how private messages to the Angelus Temple leaked out to the press, revealing her presence in Paris."

Mrs. Hutton's condition was still grave, it was said, following a serious abdominal operation by the famous gynecologist.

Dr. Bove revealed the faked birth message came back to Paris from America almost, he said, before it could have been delivered to Hutton in Los Angeles, enabling Mrs. Hutton to direct the inquiry and discover the news leak.

The surgeon, however, refused to specify how they found the leak or what it was, saying only:

"It was somewhere in the United States. I believe a certain newspaper is responsible."

Los Angeles, June 25 (A.P.).—Receipt of a cablegram summoning David L. Hutton, jr., to the bedside of his wife, Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, evangelist pastor of Angelus Temple, in Paris, was announced today at the million-dollar sanctuary of the Four-Square Gospel.

Miss Harriett Jordan, acting leader of the temple in the evangelist's absence, took the cablegram to mean that the condition of Mrs. Hutton, who is reported to have undergone an abdominal operation in Paris, has taken a turn for the worse.

QUAKE SHAKES AREA ALONG WEST COAST

sity of Nevada seismograph, no property damage was reported from the quake. Frightened citizens ran from their homes.

Today's temblor was of shorter duration than the five-minute quake which rocked this region at noon Friday. Earth movements in the old Lovelock fault were blamed for the two shocks, the strongest felt in Nevada in several years.

(Associated Press.)

Severe earthshocks, making difficult the reading of the instruments, were recorded Saturday night by the Georgetown University Observatory, which reported the quakes started at 5:14:28, reached a maximum at 6:25, and ended around 10 p. m.

Observers said the recordings were difficult to read, but that it appeared the shocks were centered in India.

'BLACK SHIRT' CHIEF BELIEVED ARRESTED

cessful. Residents day after day reported their machines stolen. Storekeepers refused to remain open after dark.

The first appearance of the gang was on October 9, 1932. Nightly for three weeks they rode forth to plunder. Time and again shots were exchanged with police authorities. On one occasion a couple parked along the road was fired upon.

In November six suspects were arrested. One of these was sentenced to four years in prison on charges of stealing automobiles. Others drew sentences on various counts, and at least two were released.

Subsequent investigation of the crimes resulted in the resignation of a St. Marys County deputy sheriff. Feeling in the county ran high and a citizens' mass meeting protested the lack of action by authorities.

Deputy Sheriff Sprague last night declined to reveal a basis for suspecting Pullium of connection with the gang. His actions will be carefully investigated, Sprague declared.

SNELL DENOUNCES CONGRESS' SESSION AS SPENDING SPREE

cratic dictation that ever has been known to the civilized world outside of Russia."

Reviewing the steps by which some of the major bills of the session came before the House and Senate, Mr. Snell said that Congress had completely abdicated as a deliberative forum.

"There never has been such a travesty upon representative government as the procedure of the House of Representatives during the extraordinary session of the Seventy-third Congress," he charged.

"Bills were written in the executive departments of the Government, sent to the House and ordered passed as written. In some cases, bills were passed before they were printed, before any copies were available even for the leaders of the House or members of the committees sponsoring them, without any one knowing what they contained."

Coming at the end of the Roosevelt "honeymoon" Congress, Mr. Snell's broadside against the administration was interpreted as an outline of Republican policy in preparation for the 1934 congressional campaign. It enumerated the principal points of party attack and sounded the keynote slogan, "Back to the Constitution."

Experiments Charged.

Only two days before he released his "look at the record," Mr. Snell announced the beginning of plans for the 1934 congressional campaign. Earlier last week Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, began a series of organization conferences designed to focus the energies of the party on the legislative activities of the special session.

"No legislative body in the history of the United States ever wrought such profound changes in the laws and the Constitution," Mr. Snell's statement said. "It appropriated more money, levied more and heavier new taxes, and authorized a larger bond issuance than any Congress in the history of the United States, with the single exception of the Congress in session during the World War."

Total appropriations of the session were tabulated at $4,400,000,000, or approximately $800,000,000 more than the entire Federal budget for 1933. Yet less than $700,000,000 of the special session appropriations were for ordinary Federal functions. The balance of the new authorizations were for the administration's special ventures in economic experimentation.

"Instead of reducing Federal expenditures by 25 per cent, the Democratic administration, in 100 days, more than doubled them. * * * The Federal budget has not been balanced. It is more out of balance than at any time in the history of the United States, with the single exception of one year during the World War.

"There has been a persistent attempt upon the part of the administration to make the public believe the budget has been balanced. * * * Tricky bookkeeping, devised to conceal from the public the real financial condition of the Government, may succeed in its purpose for a brief time, but it does not pay off the debts. It does not stop the drain on the public credit. It does not stop the increase in interest charges. It does not halt the upward march of Federal taxes. * * * You can not escape the sheriff and the debtors' court by the mental process of capitalizing your debts and calling them investments."

In attacking President Roosevelt's money policies, Mr. Snell recalled that the abandonment of the gold standard "was not found necessary during the dark days of the Civil War, or during the period of financial stress during the World War."

"Pledge Dishonored."

"By reason of that action," he said as another point, "the United States Government, for the first time in its history, deliberately dishonored its pledge to those who had bought Government securities. This act of outright repudiation has set an example to other nations owing us money which is already bearing us costly fruit. It will operate to our financial loss and our national humiliation for generations to come."

A charge that the Federal Civil Service is being undermined by President Roosevelt's personnel policies was one point of Representative Snell's review of the special session.

"The opportunities offered in much of the legislation enacted invite the building of a corruptible and corrupting political machine, capable of intolerable abuses and immense scandals," he said. "Already there have been evidences that certain interests and individuals are preparing to take advantage of just such opportunities.

"The American people will not demand that the President bring about an economic millennium through the powers vested in him and the laws enacted at his request, but they do expect, and have the right to demand, that if he fails in his high purpose that he return those powers untainted by political corruption or partisan favoritism. They had better remain unused than be abused."

PLAN FOR REDUCING COTTON CROP READY

Program Will Be Launched This Week to Pay for Curtailing Yield.

Atlanta, June 25 (A.P.).—The Government's offer to pay for the privilege of giving the cotton farmer the benefits of planned production, with the idea of using the anticipated business stimulus as a lever to help the Nation out of the economic mire, will be presented to 2,000,000 growers of the South's big money crop this week.

The offer, with the immediate objective of retiring from cotton production about 10,000,000 acres already planted and expected to produce around 3,000,000 bales, will be carried to the farmers by their own leaders, by men they know rather than by Government functionaires.

County committees, headed by county agents and with other leaders of business and farm life as members, have been set up under the State agencies which comprise the State extension forces. These county committees in turn have set up, all over the cotton belt from Virginia to California, local committees of volunteer workers in the rural communities.

In these rural communities, under direction of the local volunteers, meetings will be held, beginning tomorrow. There the plan of the Government to lease cotton acreage to be plowed under and to permit farmers to subscribe to shares of Government-owned cotton and take advantage of anticipated price rises, will be explained, and the farmers will be given blanks for making their offers.

Brand Launches Drive To Lower Cotton Yield

(Associated Press.)

Charles J. Brand, coadministrator of the agricultural adjustment administration, last night launched the drive to sign up Southern cotton growers in the movement to reduce acreage, giving them in return cash payments for options on Government-owned cotton at approximately 3 cents under the current market price.

In an address, explaining the move designed to have many thousands growers plow under part of their present crop, Brand asserted that "this offer of Government assistance" marks "an epoch in our economic history."

"After 12 years of merciless deflation and poverty," Brand said, "badgered and driven by circumstance, the farmers of the South now have an opportunity to plan and order their business, and thus to obtain a fairer share of the Nation's income."

Alfonso Forgives Wedding

Former King's Message to Son Revokes Previous Disapproval.

Asturias and His Bride Are Made Happy by Exile's Act.

Evian-Les-Bains, France, June 25 (A.P.).—The last cloud over the honeymoon of the Prince of Asturias and his Cuban bride was dispelled today by receipt of a message from former King Alfonso, conveying his forgiveness for the disobedient marriage.

Friends of the young couple said that Alfonso also expressed his parental affection for his son, who married last Wednesday at Lausanne despite the express disapproval of his father.

The young couple at receipt of the message of forgiveness were said to be supremely happy.

There had been no previous intimation that Alfonso would change his stand, taken at the time the engagement was first announced, that he would never consent to the wedding. The prince wept at the wedding because of his father's objection to his bride.

BUCK WILL START LONG TERM TODAY

Relatives Say Farewell to Man Convicted of Kidnaping McMath Girl.

Barnstable, Mass., June 25 (A.P.).—Kenneth Buck, headed for a 24-year sentence in State prison, said farewell to relatives and friends in the Barnstable County Jail today as his attorney prepared to make one last effort to stay the mandate of the law.

After more than seven hours of deliberation last night, a jury of Cape Cod tradesmen returned a verdict of guilty against the unemployed chauffeur who had admitted he kidnaped Margaret (Peggy) McMath. The child was taken from the Harwich Center School on May 2 and returned May 5, after $60,000 ransom had been paid. The money was found in Kenneth's home.

Cyril Buck, who was tried with his brother and acquitted, was among those who visited the convicted man today. With him was his mother, Mrs. Bertha Buck, who had been in the courtroom every day of the two week's trial; Kenneth's wife, Mollie, and his son, Kenneth, jr. Kenneth was scheduled to be taken to the State prison in Boston tomorrow morning.

Meanwhile Elias Burwick, of Worcester, counsel for Kenneth, went to Orleans to interview a woman who, he indicated, had information which might be valuable to his client.

Goebbels, addressing a Nazi party demonstration, said: "The National-Socialist (Nazi) revolution is not ended. The entire people must be united in one party, and the right of existence of every other party must be denied."

SALZBURG BLASTS CAUSE TROOP RUSH

Flaming Rafts Shaped Like Nazi Emblem Floated Through Town.

Vienna, June 25 (A.P.).—A battalion of motorized troops was rushed today to strengthen the garrison at Salzburg, where several explosions causing minor damage, occurred last night.

One magnesium bomb wrecked a clothing store window display and another damaged the doorway of a newspaper building.

In other places in the city several dummy bombs equipped with fuses, but without explosives, were found.

At the same time flaming, swastika-shaped rafts floated down the Salzach River through the town until fished out by police. In Niederwolz, Steiermark, a bomb exploded but without injuring anybody.

At Gmunden in south Kammergut tonight a bomb tore off the front of the burgomaster's house. Fragments damaged a villa 300 feet away and the detonation shook houses in the neighborhood, but none was injured.

Extraordinary measures were taken today to safeguard Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, who motored to a mass meeting near Zellerndorf. Gendarmes with bayonets fixed patrolled the 50-mile stretch of road supplementing motorcycle detachments.

LIVING COST FOUND SLIGHTLY INCREASED

First Advance Since September, 1930, Reported by National Board.

An increase of eight-tenths of 1 per cent in the cost of living for wage earners in the United States was reported yesterday by the National Industrial Conference Board. The increase, the first since September, 1930, according to the report, was due almost entirely to a substantial rise in food prices.

The report found total living costs in May were 7.4 per cent lower than in May, 1932, and 27.1 per cent lower than May, 1929. The purchasing value of the dollar, on the 1923 basis of 100 cents, was 138.7 cents in May, as compared with 139.9 cents in April.

For the entire period covered by the National Industrial Conference Board's computations, the purchasing power of the dollar was highest at 161.3 cents in July, 1914. The lowest was 80.9 cents in July, 1920.

Rent Still Going Down.

Although a seasonal upturn in food prices is generally observed between April and May, the increase of 3.6 per cent between these two months of this year is much larger than the usual seasonal rise. Compared with prices in May, 1932, there has been a decline of 7.5 per cent and since May of four years ago, a decline of 38.9 per cent.

Rents continued on their downward trend, declining eight per cent since April. From 13 of the 172 cities included in the index, higher rentals were reported; from 34 cities, lower rentals, and from the remaining cities, no change. Since May, 1932, and May, 1929, rents have declined 13.6 and 31.1 per cent respectively.

Clothing Stationary.

The clothing index as a whole remained the same in May as in April. Small increases in the average price of 24 of the 47 articles of clothing covered were offset by declines in the prices of 16 articles. No change was noted in the prices of seven articles.

Since May 1932, there has been a reduction of 4.9 per cent and since May, 1929, a reduction of 13 per cent in the price of coal. A small increase of 0.1 per cent in sundries was caused by slightly higher prices of furniture and house furnishings. Sundries as a whole were 4.2 per cent lower in May than in May 1932.

Home Bank Loans Total $56,856,872

(Associated Press.)

Directors of the Federal Home Loan system have authorized a total of $56,856,872 in loans to member institutions.

In the board's weekly report it said that for the week ended June 17 it had authorized an additional $13,260,747 in lines of credit to member institutions and that the home loan banks had approved loans of $1,975,668 in the week.

The board lends the money to member institutions, enabling them to make loans on homes.

GEN. JOHNSON SAYS WILD PRICE LIFTING WON'T BE TOLERATED

still have jobs are largely on much reduced incomes. Any wildcat price lifting will have its first bearing directly on the very creature necessities of these unfortunates—their means to keep out hunger, thirst and cold. This administration simply will not stand for that, and we do not expect to have any trouble about it.

"Our best people understand that this is no time to get rich quick. It is time to pull our country out of a hole. We need every good man on the ropes, and nobody is going to do a thing that makes him a peace profiteer by taking advantage of the patriotic unselfishness of his fellows."

Johnson said the entire problem of economic security simmered down to the job of keeping the purchasing power of workers in step with the price and quantity of the things they make and added that "nobody in the world ever had the nerve and the power seriously to tackle it until Franklin Roosevelt began to tell the country last July what he was going to do about it if he became President."

No Promises or Boasts.

"The whole effort comes down to one single question," the administrator said, "and all anybody who wonders whether the national recovery act will work has to ask is 'can we get all employers in America to do about the same thing at about the same time when they know that by doing it they can bring this country of ours out of this depression and lift this deadening load of fear from people's hearts?'

"Well we can't say yes until it is done, but the President has had people in touch with employers of all kinds—big and little—for a period of several weeks. We are making neither promises nor boasts, but we can tell you one thing very definitely and surely—employers in this country want to do this thing harder than they ever wanted to do anything together and in one big strong pull at any time since the war."

Johnson asked and then answered the question himself:

"What should be the shorter week and what should be the minimum wage?"

"The degree of present activity widely differs in the various industries. The cost of living differs in different regions. The plan is (so far as possible) for each industry to absorb the labor normally attached to it at a living wage in fact and, for that reason, the question can not be answered for all industries or all conditions by any single inflexible rule.

32-Hour Week Average.

"But in a general way and without any commitment we can say for the benefit of smaller employers everywhere that, under present conditions, and as far as the lowest-paid class of workers are concerned, an average of about 32 hours a week at not less than 45 cents an hour for the lowest paid type of worker would do this job."

Earlier Johnson said:

"In the first place there has recently been unfortunate and ill-informed conjecture that there is some mutual fear between labor and industry which has slowed up the preparation of industrial agreements for submission to the President. On the one hand it is said that labor has to rush to organize and submit collective demands before industry submits any agreements. On the other it is said, that industry should rush to form company unions. Both sayings are wrong and very harmful."

Setting up his organization at the direction of President Roosevelt weeks before the enabling legislation was enacted, Johnson expressed a hope that the ten major industries employing some 70 per cent of the workers in manufacturing plants would be ready with their codes at once.

Only Textiles Ready.

To date, however, only the textiles among the major industries have formally presented proposed codes, although considerably more than a score of smaller industries have come in. Other of the basic manufacturing businesses are working in various parts of the country upon their codes—industries, including steel, coal, oil, rubber and lumber—but there have been definite reports that they were watching for results from the textile hearing.

Meanwhile, Johnson has reports that many plants have stepped up production on the present wage levels and are accumulating big stocks on hand prior to bringing themselves under the recovery administration.

A further problem has been presented by the appeal of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, to workers everywhere to "organize" to obtain full benefits of the act for themselves. This has disturbed many employers who opposed the labor provisions of the legislation guaranteeing "collective bargaining" for wages on the grounds that even where employer-employe relations are satisfactory now there would be attempts by organizers to change the status.

Retail Dry Goods Code.

While officials, including Johnson, have insisted repeatedly that the codes should come voluntarily from industry there were strong indications last night that a movement had been started to mould public opinion in support of the act. Further public addresses and other efforts to stimulate a wider reaction were expended shortly.

A code from the National Retail Dry Goods Association was understood to be ready for presentation this week with tentative copies having gone out to members for scrutiny.

The agreement provides for a 48-hour week in retail dry goods, department stores, mail order and specialty shops, with the exception of the two weeks before Christmas and two days a year for inventory purposes.

The minimum wage scale for male employes over 18 years of age with one year's experience is set at $18 a week within metropolitan areas of over 1,000,000 population, $15 a week within areas of from 250,000 to 1,000,000 and $12 in the balance of the country. For women the scale would be $12, $11, and $10.

The code also stipulates that it will be unfair competition for any dealer to sell any merchandise at less than the net invoice cost plus 10 per cent to insure that labor cost shall at least be partially covered.

WEST COAST POLICE HUNT VERNE SANKEY

Washington Spreads Net to Keep Kidnaping Suspect From Crossing Border.

Seattle, June 25 (A.P.).—All the resources of western Washington's police organizations were called upon tonight in a widespread man-hunt for Verne Sankey, Midwestern kidnaping suspect, following anonymous reports he might be in the vicinity of Centralia.

Heavily armed patrols watched highways in the Western part of the State and at Blaine, on the Canadian border, Federal officers were prepared for any eventuality should Sankey attempt to escape into Canada.

Sankey, 41, and a former Canadian railroad worker, is sought for the kidnaping of William Hamm, jr., 39, St. Paul brewer, June 15; the abduction a year ago of Haskell Bohn, member of a wealthy St. Paul family, and the kidnaping last February of Charles Boettcher II, of Denver.

A watchman at an amusement park here last night sent officers scurrying in search after he had tentatively identified one occupant of a motor car as Gordon Alcon, a companion of Sankey's, from pictures on file at the sheriff's office.

The watchman, James McBride, told officers the other occupant of the car kept his face covered during the conversation while the man believed to be Alcon asked the best route via dirt roads to Bellingham, near the Canadian border.

Officers believed it possible the man who kept his face covered was Sankey.

Five Days Remain For Auto Permits

Only five days remain in which Alexandria automobile drivers may obtain their operators' licenses to avoid possible arrest and fine. Heretofore the card issued to the owner of an automobile was authority for the owner of the car, any member of his family over 16 years of age, guests or servants, to drive it. However, effective July 1, a license will be required for each person operating an automobile, which is issued without cost by the motor vehicle department at Richmond, and is good until June 30, 1934, after which a nominal fee will be charged for renewal.

Sergt. E. J. McDermott, of the State motor vehicle department, stated yesterday that the majority of Alexandria drivers have already obtained their licenses.

Under the recent law, failure to have the required permit is designated as a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not to exceed $500, and in case of a person operating a car whose permit has been revoked, a mandatory jail sentence of three days is provided, as well as a fine of not exceeding $500.

Plan to Rename Streets Of Arlington to Be Heard

The Arlington County Board tonight will hold a public hearing at the courthouse on the proposed ordinance providing for the renaming of all streets in the county.

The plan was worked out by a large citizens' committee, headed by Monroe H. Stockett. The program calls for a division of the county into northern and southern sections, with the Lee boulevard as the dividing line. Funds to carry the work on have been placed in the budget.

Sixth Ward Citizens to Meet.

The Sixth Ward Citizens Association, of Alexandria, will hold a meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the Potomac community hall. Mrs. Naomi Craver will preside and short talks will be delivered by candidates for local offices.

Beer Garden on River Planned in Alexandria

Alexandria soon will have a beer garden, in spite of the State law prohibiting the sale of beer, according to current reports. It is said the resort will be built a few hundred feet from a city wharf, and separated from the shore by a small bridge. It will be in waters under the jurisdiction of the District of Columbia.

Similar beer gardens in the Potomac River are being operated at other points, immune from the Virginia dry law.

She had spent the night at the nearby residence of Miss Mary Dreier, a friend. After a call on the President and his crew, Mrs. Roosevelt paid a visit to the newspaper ship, the Comanche.

Wants Davis Report.

The President is eager to get a first report on the disarmament situation in Europe. He expects to talk over the question thoroughly with Mr. Davis, who also served as ambassador-at-large in Europe and who took part in the preliminary moves of the London Economic Conference.

Davis, who came back for the marriage of his son, J. Paschal, to Miss Evelyn Ames, is returning to the European parleys, and there is every expectation he will take with him new and special instructions.

Meanwhile, Mr. Roosevelt is launching a $238,000,000 naval construction program, while the European statesmen dicker over disarmament.

Four of Party Return.

The President lost three members of his crew and his secretary, Stephen T. Early, on the departing Bernadou. Early is returning to Washington to take over the office, while Marvin H. McIntyre, another secretary, comes up for the last week of the cruise.

James Roosevelt left on the Bernadou to attend tomorrow's session of the Massachusetts repeal constitutional convention, to which he is a delegate.

John Cutter and Amyas Ames went with him. Roosevelt and cutter will rejoin the Amberjack II Tuesday on the returning Bernadou.

Retiring Morgue-Master Undepressed by Drab Duty

William Schoneberger, Completing 41 Years' Service, Found Belief in Predestination Saved Him From Becoming Morbid Over Death.

Retiring July 1 after 41 years as District Morgue-master, William Schoneberger sat back yesterday in his home at 1221 Sixth street southwest and reminisced concerning a life's work which most would consider far from pleasant.

Mr. Schoneberger, who celebrated his seventieth birthday last week, appears to have none of the cynicism one would associate with a man who [illegible] handling bodies of [illegible] often horribly killed.

He explains his cheerful outlook on life by his fatalistic belief in predestination.

"Whenever a body was brought to the Morgue I always felt that person was fated to die in that way and so I never let myself get worried about it," Mr. Schoneberger said yesterday.

He recalled that the original Morgue, where he started to work for the city, was located in what is now the First Precinct. It consisted of one room about 10 feet square. The present Morgue on the waterfront was built in 1904.

The biggest night's job he ever had was at the time of the Terra Cotta wreck in 1906. That disaster cost the lives of 46 persons when a B. & O. Sunday excursion train was rammed by another train.

"It was a miserable, foggy night when we started out to the scene in the Morgue wagon followed by a string of ambulances from the Army War College," Mr. Schoneberger recalled.

"Many of the bodies were mangled beyond recognition. We wrapped up all those we could find that night in sheets borrowed from the Pullman Co. and took most of them back to Washington on a freight car," he said.

Mr. Shoneberger does not look forward to retiring as he has no particular hobbies. He is fond of baseball, however, and hopes to help cheer the Washington team toward the pennant.

He is a thirty-third degree Mason, a member of the Woodmen of the World and the Patriotic Sons of America.

He has lived at his present home with his wife and four children since 1904, and was born in Washington. The children are all married and there is one great-grandchild.

Southwest Obtains Slight Heat Relief

Kansas City, June 25 (A.P.).—Clouds gave relief from the heat in parts of the drought area of the Southwest today, but the rainfall needed for the restoration of crops was wanting and temperatures remained high in parts of Oklahoma and Texas.

Today was the hottest June 25 in the history of the Oklahoma City Weather Bureau, the mercury mounting to 104. The same reading was made in Tulsa.

North Texas temperatures remained about the century mark. Clouds reduced Kansas City's high to 94, and it was 93 in Topeka, Kans., a drop of 10 degrees from yesterday.

THE FEDERAL DIARY

By George D. Riley

Sacred to the memory of Civil Service, aged 50 years. BORN 1883—DIED 1933 soon after celebration of its golden jubilee.

"Without a single exception the new agencies of Government created under the recovery program have been thrown open to the political spoilsman to do with as he may see fit."

Help yourself to a bowl brimful of spoils, for "to the victors belong the spoils."

Thus we go back to the day of Andrew Jackson, hero though he was in the name of the whole American people in the battle of New Orleans and elsewhere, the temptation to open the floodgates of Spoilsdom was irresistible.

THE National Civil Service Reform League has just completed its report on Civil Service in which temperate language has been used to describe conditions as they affect Civil Service employes. Let us read:

"The administration's program for recovery from the economic morass is seriously threatened by the spoils system, which may prove an insurmountable hurdle to its success. We are passing through an ordeal which taxes to the utmost the wisdom of our lawmakers, the ingenuity and judgment of our leaders and the patience of our people. The new administration in every step it takes must meet and overcome this obstacle of the spoils system. The Democratic party after 12 lean years in the Federal Civil Service has come back into power. It has enacted a farm relief law setting up a new agency of Government with broad miscellaneous functions."

"It has taken over the operation of the Muscle Shoals development, whereby the U. S. Government has virtually entered into the public utility business; has enacted laws setting up agencies of government to supervise the issuance of new securities by private corporations; to provide Federal aid for unemployment relief to States; for the regulation of loans from the R. F. C. to home owners, and to regulate industrial relations in the interest of facilitating interstate commerce and the cooperation of trade groups.

"THE new administration has turned its back upon the only method of safeguarding these new agencies from maladministration. Without a single exception the new agencies of government thus created have been thrown open to the political spoilsman to do with as he may see fit. The excuse given when objection has been made to exemption from civil service tests has been that these agencies are a part of the emergency program and that they may be temporary in character. A more specious excuse could not be devised to hoodwink the public. It is true that to be effective the machinery of the new agencies thus created must be promptly set in motion.

"In the light of experience, however, it is certain that exemption from civil service requirements of the subordinates of these agencies will prove a costly mistake. Adherence to the merit system would not in the least delay the organization of the new bureaus. Indeed, existing eligible registers of the Civil Service Commission, if used, would greatly facilitate the employment problem for the Government. The pressure which has been and will be exerted by the members of Congress and local political leaders upon the administrative officials placed in charge of these agencies is sure to be intolerable, and the officials charged with responsibility of administration will face a handicap which may well prove fatal to the success of many of the measures. In every instance, these emergency measures call for highly trained and experienced employes of demonstrated fitness. Public confidence in the success of the administration of the agencies will depend in large measure on the character of the personnel."

To Robert McLennan, Gardener.

GARDENERS and greenhouse men, like prophets, are seldom accorded the honor their earthy profession merits. So, on July 1, when Robert McLennan retires from Federal service after devoting 38 years to the growing of plants, few there will be who will note the occasion.

Yet in the more than 30 years that Mr. McLennan has been head gardener of the Bureau of Plant Industry's greenhouses at Twelfth street and Constitution avenue northwest, it has been Mac's duty to watch over the experimental work of the bureau's scientists and to bring his plant charges up in the way they should go.

No small responsibility this, for it is on efficient greenhouse management that success of many scientific experiments rests; and without such careful attention to "agronomic" matters, such as watering, ventilation, and so forth, hours of patient preparation are awarded with naught but failure.

For the assumption of this task, too frequently ignored or lightly considered by its beneficiaries, Mac was carefully prepared. Born in Scotland 69 years ago, Mac learned his trade on the justly famous estates of landed lords. Coming to the United States 41 years ago, Mac served as gardner on some of the large estates in the South, where, from Talledega, in 1895, he came to Washington to take a gardener's position in the propagating garden, since absorbed into what is now Col. Grant's Office of Public Buildings and Grounds.

In 1901, Mac was transferred to the now Division of Gardens and Grounds, Bureau of Plant Industry, in charge of the pathological range of greenhouses, where he has remained to the present time. But in this year of grace, a cut of about $10,000 forces economies—and Mac leaves us.

Mac has performed his appointed tasks efficiently and well, and merits the grateful appreciation of the investigators whose reputations in the realm of plant science are deeply rooted in greenhouse soil.

To Charles W. Dawson falls the task of carrying on for Mac. He, like Mac, is eminently fitted for the position, a man who for years has cared for scientific brain children and knows his job—as well as the scientists themselves who, sometimes, show a prima donne's tempermentality in their work.

And so Mac leaves for a well-deserved rest. We are genuinely sorry to see him go, but it could not be otherwise. May he, in the years to come, find some medicum of happiness in the thought that his work was appreciated. W. A. W.

The Roosevelt Democrat's Creed.

I BELIEVE in the United Soviet Socialistic sopping-wet States of America, as a government of the Roosevelt Democrats, by the Roosevelt Democrats, for the Roosevelt Democrats, whose unjust powers are not derived from the consent of the governed; not a democracy in a republic; not a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; an imperfect Union, not one and entirely separable, established upon principles of undue freedom for the Roosevelt Democrats, inequality of citizens who are not Roosevelt Democrats, injustice for all who are not Roosevelt Democrats, and inhumanity for all of which American Patriots did not sacrifice their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to run it only for Roosevelt Democrats; to scrap the Constitution; to tear its laws to pieces; to hell with the Flag because other than Roosevelt Democrats also live under it; and to hand as much of it as possible over to Europe, Japan and any other country that wants it.

All Cigarettes are not Alike

Different Kinds of Tobaccos Make a Difference in Taste and Aroma

. . . Take Chesterfields, for Instance

SOME cigarettes are made out of only one kind of tobacco...while others are made from several different kinds.

And everyone can understand that different tobaccos make a difference in taste and aroma. Chesterfields are a good example of this difference.

You see it's not easy to make Chesterfield's milder taste. It takes three distinct kinds of Domestic tobaccos. Then these must be seasoned with the right amount of Turkish. And they must be blended and cross-blended until their flavors are welded together . . . to make a cigarette that has character and yet is not too strong . . . to make a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better.

Wherever you buy Chesterfields, you get them just as fresh as if you came by our factory door

PROBERS ARE SILENT ON KUHN, LOEB QUIZ

Secrecy Veils Senate Plans for Inquiry Slated to Begin Tomorrow.

(Associated Press.)

Ready to begin tomorrow an investigation of the operations of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., one of the Nation's biggest private banking houses, Senate investigators yesterday shrouded in silence the course they intend to follow through the inquiry.

The same secrecy which has veiled their preliminary work in previous inquiries was evident as the Kuhn, Loeb investigation approached, but there were hints of hitherto unmade disclosures.

Members of the investigating committee said everything was in readiness for resumption of their inquiry into private banking practices and only the arrival of Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, was awaited.

Pecora to Arrive Today.

Pecora, the swarthy New Yorker who has conducted all of the recent spectacular inquiries, is expected to arrive today in time to confer with committee members before the first hearing tomorrow.

Investigators have announced that in a general way the Kuhn, Loeb inquiry will follow the lines of the recent investigation of J. P. Morgan & Co., in which banking practices and security sales were closely scrutinized.

There have been indications, also, that income tax testimony, which has played such a prominent part in Morgan hearings, might figure in the Kuhn, Loeb case.

Inquiries to Continue.

Chairman Pletcher announced Saturday that, despite the acquittal of Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, on charges of income tax evasion, the committee would continue to disclose any practices encountered that were considered "unwholesome."

"It has been my view, and I believe it is the view of the committee," Pletcher said, "that when unwholesome or unethical practices were discovered, we had a public duty to expose them and to call them to the attention of Congress for such remedial action as might be deemed appropriate. As chairman of the committee, I propose to pursue this policy so long as the investigation proceeds."

The Kuhn, Loeb hearings will be conducted by a subcommittee of the Banking Committee. The full committee sat in on the Morgan investigation and held frequent executive meetings to argue over and map out procedure.

Morgan Case May Aid.

This will not be necessary in the approaching case, members believe, because the decisions reached in the Morgan inquiry, and the course approved at that time, will stand for the approaching hearings.

It was indicated, therefore, that no question would be raised about the admission of evidence dealing with income tax transactions, favored customer lists, individual borrowers among other bankers, and other information that caused controversy during the Morgan case.

One of the members of the subcommittee, however, is Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, who frequently protested the course of the Morgan inquiry and criticized Pecora's methods.

Other members of the group, in addition to Fletcher, are Senators Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky; Costigan (Democrat), Colorado; Townsend (Republican), Delaware; Goldsborough (Republican), Maryland, and Steiwer (Republican), Oregon.

Women's Courage in 'Chaos' Praised by Mrs. Roosevelt

They Are Maintaining Moral, Spiritual and Cultural Values of Life, She Tells World Meeting of Rural Homemakers at Stockholm.

(United Press.)

Women are maintaining "the moral, spiritual and cultural values of life in the face of economic chaos," Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt declared in a message sent on behalf of American women to the international meeting of rural women's and homemakers' organizations opening in Stockholm, Sweden today. In her letter Mrs. Roosevelt said:

"In my own name and that of all my fellow countrywomen, may I extend cordial greetings and friendship to you who are present and through you to all rural homemakers in the nations represented at this important gathering.

"One of the most constructive forces in the world today is the endeavor of organized womanhood, rural as well as urban, in all nations to maintain the moral, spiritual and cultural values of life in the face of economic chaos.

"In the United States as elsewhere, rural women have heroically faced the exceedingly difficult—sometimes tragic—conditions which have confronted them during recent years.

"Their sterling character, sane philosophy, sustained faith in agriculture and courageous endeavor to maintain desirable standards of living for rural people, having served our Nation as a powerful stabilizing factor during times of difficulty.

"May the bonds of understanding and friendship among rural women of all lands grow stronger year by year, and similar meetings be held at intervals to consider matters of rural well-being, for that is the corner stone of all progress. May you consistently strive to achieve high standards of personal integrity and public service and to maintain a satisfactory quality of life in our rural homes.

"The world has at last recognized that it must deal justly with agriculture and is seeking ways and means to that end. May you rural women with undiminished zeal continue to serve your family, your community and your Nation to the end that family life will be made secure, agriculture shall be adequately recompensed, civilization be maintained and strengthened, the nations of the world again experience peace and stability and international good will and cooperation be achieved."

ANTI-SOVIET MOVE TO START IN TOKYO

Japan Looks to Conference to Eliminate Moscow Power on Pacific.

Tokyo, June 25 (A.P.).—A conference in which Japan hopes to eliminate the last vestiges of Soviet influence in Manchuria and nullify Russia as a strategic factor on the shores of the Pacific Ocean, completing the process begun by the Russo-Japanese war of 1904, is scheduled to open at the Japanese foreign office tomorrow afternoon with an address of welcome by Foreign Minister Count Yasuya Uchida.

Ostensibly the conference is for negotiations between Russia and Manchukuo for the sale by the Soviet government of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Actually, the Japanese are taking advantage of the Russians' willingness to withdraw peacefully from Manchuria, admitting Japan's full mastery in this area.

High Japanese authorities stressed today that success or failure of the parley will determine Japanese-Russian relations for the next generation and that peaceful transfer of the railway to Manchukuo would practically eliminate the threat of a new war between the two countries.

German Creditors Confer on Debts

London, June 25 (A.P.).—Representatives of Germany's long-term creditors met here today to prepare a common front on reopening tomorrow of negotiations with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank.

Twenty-five representatives of bankers in the United States, Switzerland, Great Britain and Holland participated in today's preliminary meeting.

An attempt will be made to reach an accord on the long-term debts, excepting the Young and Dawes loans, which were partly settled last week when Dr. Schacht said he was unable to continue service on other long-term obligations consisting chiefly of loans in municipalities and states.

Bavarian Peoples Party Heads Jailed in Munich

Munich, Germany, June 25 (A.P.).—Adolf Wagner, Bavarian minister of interior, announced today that a number of leaders of the Bavarian People's Party had been jailed, along with the arrests of Socialists recently. The number was not announced. (The German government last week banned the Socialist party, for a long time the leading party numerically in the country.)

Wagner said that the tempo of the revolution must be speeded up and that the time for political parties was past.

"GENERAL PURGING" OF NAZIS IS PLANNED

Hitler Would Eliminate All Subversive Elements in His Party.

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press.)

Berlin, June 25—A "general purging" of the Nazi party is planned by Chancellor Adolf Hitler in an effort to eliminate subversive elements, it was learned reliably tonight.

The chancellor's scheme is to consolidate his power within the Nazi organization with drastic measures of "purification" similar to his relentless campaign to eradicate opposition in all other political groups in the Reich, it was indicated.

The foreign situation, including Germany's uncertain debt position and the forthcoming July 1 moratorium on practically all obligations owed abroad, has been regarded as one main factor in preventing Hitler's moving toward such an overhauling of his Nazi party even before this.

The delicate foreign problem also prevented his acting sooner, it was believed, against the Socialists and Nationalist party, which swift moves in the past week have done much to eliminate them as a potential menace to the Hitlerite dictatorship.

The movement to eliminate the influence of the Nationalists and Socialists, as well as the Catholics, gained momentum following the breakdown in recent months of the Communist opposition.

PUBLIC WORKS POLICY.

An organization is being completed to administer the vast public works program for which Congress appropriated $3,300,000,000. This agency will be kept entirely separate from the administration of the industrial recovery measure, although both are working toward the same general end—to stimulate employment.

The National Public Works Board has issued a statement of policy by which all projects recommended for inclusion in this program will be judged. States and municipalities desiring to facilitate undertakings of this kind are warned not to send their plans to Washington. The central office will give attention to only those projects recommened by State administrators, and the appointment of these officials awaits the return of President Roosevelt from his vacation. The board is attempting to decentralize the administration of this venture as far as possible, to avoid the waste of funds which so frequently accompanies rush orders to spend large sums on public works.

State administrators will be instructed to recommend only those projects which are "socially desirable in the sense of contributing something of value to the equipment of the community." Furthermore, no project is to be recommended if its maintenance or operation would require additional outlays by the Government. Preference will be given to undertakings that can be started immediately. An effort will be made to hasten building in localities where unemployment is most acute. Some attention will also be given to coordination of each project with the general program.

Projects recommended by State administrators to the central office at Washington will be investigated from the viewpoints of general policy, engineering and technical soundness, legal feasibility, financial requirements, desirability from the standpoint of creating jobs, and relation to the central program. Labor will be secured for the most part through local employment agencies. Efforts will be made to prevent extensive migration of labor, and to discourage employees from leaving present positions to secure jobs on public works.

This policy is calculated to avoid many mistakes that have been made in the past in carrying out public works programs. Makeshift projects undertaken for the sake of creating work are frowned upon. But it is much easier to formulate general policies than it is to apply them in a way that will speed up construction on a large scale without wasting public funds. The expenditure of more than three billions of dollars on public works throughout the United States is a tremendous undertaking. Competent State administrators and an executive genius in Washington, as well as a cautious policy, will be essential to make certain that the public will get its money's worth out of these extensive undertakings.

WAR AIRPLANES.

In spite of all discouragements there is progress in the development of airplanes for national defense. Forty-six new attack planes, ordered by the Army Air Corps, are about to be constructed at Buffalo at a cost of about $1,000,000. They are designed to carry five machine guns and a heavy bomb. Two seats are provided. The planes are to have a speed of more than 200 miles an hour, made possible by air-cooled nine-cylinder engines of 700 horsepower. The special function of these planes will be to raid troops and convoys and to break enemy communications.

The Army Air Corps and the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy are prompt in taking advantage of airplane improvements worked out by industrial concerns. Careful studies are also made of all foreign advances in the art of flying. Few if any secrets are exempt from discovery by the air attaches of this or other countries. National tastes differ, but gradually the war types of airplanes are approaching a common standard. In future wars the advantage probably will not lie in possession of unique types unknown to the enemy, but in possession of the heaviest battalions of the air.

THE BUSINESS CAPITAL.

After more than a century and a quarter as the political capital of the United States, Washington now assumes a new role, which holds promise of even more momentous history. Recently the city has become, in the language of some of our most reputable commercial commentators, "The Capital of American Business."

With the enactment of the far-reaching farm program and the industrial recovery act, the economic nerve center of the nation is now in Washington. Here the farmers of Kansas must send their spokesmen to learn the State's wheat quota. Here the cotton planters of Texas and Georgia must turn to know the Government's production policy for the new crop year. So, too, must the iron founder of Pittsburgh or Birmingham look to Washington for the word which will control his basic decisions on business policy under the Government's new venture in industrial regimentation. Now as never before in peace times must the railroad manager await his cue from Washington.

With every phase of national economy thus centered in the new Capital, it is but natural that trade associations, chambers of commerce, boards of trade, farmers' leagues, and similar bodies should establish permanent contact offices here. Within the last three weeks no less than seven city chambers of commerce have established their offices in Washington to keep their members in instantaneous touch with the swiftly moving stream of industrial regulations, production quotas, executive orders, wage agreements and other official decisions touching trade and commerce. Several of the great national trade associations which have operated for years without a permanent Washington representative now are bidders for downtown office space. Some associations are considering even the transfer of their national headquarters from Chicago, Atlanta, or New Orleans, to the new Washington.

Whatever may be the final national result of the Government's new venture in economic planning, there can be no doubt that the centralization of business control in Washington will be helpful to the city and to every branch of local commerce.

THE NEW ARABIA.

With trade at a standstill and the country heavily in debt, Arabia faced the necessity of developing her natural resources in order to maintain her independence. She had no capital of her own to finance the development, yet being suspicious of foreign powers, Arabia for years refused to grant concessions to the infidels. Arabians depended largely on the annual pilgrimage of faithful Mahometans to their holyland. When pilgrims decreased from the usual 100,000 yearly to 40,000 in 1930 and fell again the following year, Arabia found her economic difficulties multiplying, and by the end of 1932 the country defaulted.

Necessity opened a new chapter in Arabian history. The king himself took the lead in deciding that the country's latent riches should be developed. As far as possible concessions will go to Mahometans, and when given to foreigners they will be strictly regulated. One of the first steps is the construction of the railway from Jeddah to Mecca. This idea is not new. Sultan Abdul Hamid expected to join Constantinople with the holy city, and in 1914 the line had reached Medina, but was there stopped by local Arab opposition. The new concession granted to an Indian Moslem group now expects trains to be running into Mecca by 1935.

The establishment of a state bank is perhaps the greatest single forward step. After opposing the move for years, Arabia has finally granted the concession, which is the only means through which she can gain financial stability. There is now a definite prospect of the early payment of governmental debts and the release of customs duties and other revenues from their present mortgages.

Mineral resources are expected to yield the government a substantial income as soon as concessions are arranged. The summary examination made by an American geologist showed that the superficial workings of the ancients left rich deposits almost untouched.

NEW LAND VS. CROP SURPLUS.

Among the various groups that have sent delegations to Washington with a view to securing a share of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund is the National Reclamation Association. This group is interested in the "stabilization of western agriculture," which is interpreted to mean the completion of Federal reclamation projects with funds appropriated by Congress for public works.

In presenting its program here the association seems to realize that it is somewhat out of harmony with the Department of Agriculture. Secretary Wallace recently laid plans for the destruction of about one-fourth of this year's cotton crop and for drastic curtailment of the wheat crop in 1934 and 1935. In order to effectuate this program the Government is expected to lease several million acres of good land and withhold it from production. Taxes will be imposed on the consuming public to raise money to pay rent on this idle land. Under the circumstances it is asking a good deal of Uncle Sam to suggest that the Government spend about $25,000,000 to improve new lands in the West.

The reclamation group emphasizes the fact that it is not asking for construction of any new projects. It merely wants the Government to finish up the work it undertook some years ago when Congress thought that reclamation of waste land for agricultural purposes was the way to prosperity for the West. But the distinction between improving projects that are already started and building new ones does not seem to carry much weight when the administration is planning to take out of use millions of fertile acres that require no reclamation whatever.

Officials of the Reclamation Bureau have never been perturbed by the argument that their projects in the Western States merely add to overproduction of crops. Most of the crops grown on this reclaimed land, they say, are specialties which do not enter into competition with the staples that are overproduced. Yet, if the proposed benefits of the domestic allotment plan are to be distributed with complete impartiality, the Department of Agriculture may be confronted with the necessity of leasing and withholding from production some of the land that the Department of the Interior has brought under cultivation at the expense of taxpayers.

PENALIZING SELF-RELIANCE.

Federal Relief Administrator Hopkins is quoted as saying that many States "are not spending a nickel" for relief of the unemployed. This does not mean, of course, that the jobless are allowed to go hungry and without shelter, but that some States are relying entirely upon Federal funds to support their destitute people. Shocking as this situation may be to thousands of people who believe in local responsibility, it is only the first fruits of Congress' policy of making direct handouts to the States.

Mr. Hopkins is trying to encourage State officials to continue their relief programs. But his efforts are frustrated by the very nature of the law which he is called upon to administer. Congress appropriated $500,000,000 for distribution among the States for relief purposes. Half of that sum is going to the States on the basis of $1 for every $3 they have expended on relief since January 1. But the other half is to be awarded as outright gifts to States having the greatest needs. In other words, States have to prove their inability to cope with their own relief problems to obtain a share in this $250,000,000 fund. Hence, they are encouraged to confess their destitution at Washington.

With the States in competition to prove their needs for Federal aid, $500,000,000 can not be expected to last very long. When it has been spent the States may demand the appropriation of a similar sum on the ground that Congress has broken down the system through which they are accustomed to supply their relief needs.

It should be thoroughly understood that the savants in London are not engaged in bombarding the atom. This work is being done by another group entirely.

The Muscle Shoals authority finds that the possibilities of agriculture in that region are very fertile, particularly in the direction of eliminating infertile lands.

STEAM DRIVEN CARS

By William Ullman.

A mild tremor of excited anticipation passed through the automotive trade a couple years ago with the report that a steam automobile was to make its bow to the public within a short time. Nothing came of it, and the anticipatory thrill soon subsided.

In spite of this false alarm, however, the steam-driven automobile refuses to stay dead. Two such throwbacks to the old principle of propulsion are actually in a state of production in Europe. And, while they are creating no great stir along the boulevards of the Old World, they have attracted considerable interest in technical circles.

Even in this country, the steam car pops up regularly as a subject of academic interest. There are signs that this interest steadily is increasing.

Several circumstances dictate the logic behind the revival of concern with steam propulsion. One of the most emphatic of them is the quest for an automobile that is easier and simpler to control. It has manifested itself in the adoption of a host of automatic features in this year's models; automatic chokes, clutches, temperature control devices, and the like.

Invariably when simplicity of design creeps into the discussion, some one mentions the steam car. Its possibilities in this respect are universally conceded. A steam-driven car would require only three controls—a brake, steering wheel, and fuel pedal. A reversing lever, inconspicuously placed, would make a fourth. However, the usual clutch and transmission units could be disposed of entirely.

The steam driven car visualized today is not that which was discarded three decades ago when the gasoline engine appeared. The original steamers were anything but simple. The driving compartment was filled with enough valves and levers to dishearten any prospective operator who brought to his task something less than a thorough technical education. If that were not the case, he usually lost his nerve when confronted by the picture of high-pressure steam and its dangers. The picture was one which the makers of gasoline engine cars delighted to paint.

Engineering design has come a long way, however, since the steamer first came and went. The world knows a great deal more about combustion and the use of materials. It has placed steam under safe control in so many ways that fear of it has disappeared.

This circumstance, of course, does not mean that our greater scientific knowledge will be devoted to the revival of steam propulsion for automobiles. It probably will not. Just the same, the subject is being discussed again and veterans may get a bit of a thrill out of contemplating the possibilities for steam cars in modern dress.

JUST FOLKS

PICNICS IN THE PARKS.

I see the happy families round the tables in the park,
The supper on the table and the children all aglow,
And driving by the roadside I am
tempted to remark
It is good for making merry there is such a place to go.

For the rooms men build are stifling and with all a woman's care
In summer time a tenement is dreary at the best,
But the grass is cool to walk on and a
park has space to spare,
And to see his children happy puts the mind of man at rest.

The trees look down upon them in a friendly sort of way,
Uncounted feathered warblers sing
a chorus as they eat,
And the Lord must smile to see them in the lovely parks at play
Instead of being prisoned in some crowded city street.

It Isn't Fair to Jail All Bearded Men Because Some Bums Have Beards.

By Robert Quillen

THE American people are extremists. They blow hot or they blow cold—never lukewarm. Their lawlessness and their laws are equally extreme.

They endure the arrogance and corruption of some predatory commercial monopoly until their patience seems contemptible, and then they begin a wild clamor for revenge and devise laws that cripple an industry for a generation.

They tolerate a pension system that is vile with fraud and waste and graft until it threatens to bankrupt the nation, and then they rise in their wrath and demand a new deal which makes paupers of broken men who haven't drawn a painless breath since they came home from France.

In the little mountain resort town where this is written there are numbers of veterans who sleep out of doors to mend their lungs.

Among them are three natives who developed tuberculosis in 1920 or 1921. Whether their disability was "service connected" or not, this much is certain: they went to war in perfect health and began to break soon after their return.

They have families to support. One has three children and another five. And for years they have had no income except their small pensions.

Last week they left home to work in the forest. They will get one dollar a day and food. Doctors told them they wouldn't last a week, but they have small choice. The government notified them last week that their pensions had been discontinued.

Another veteran, who isn't a native, has unquestioned proof that his disability is "service connected." The doctor who taped his ribs in France wrote on his papers: "Chronic pleurisy." It wasn't pleurisy; it was tuberculosis. And it finished one lung and crippled the other before it was arrested.

If any man deserved a pension, this one did. He sacrificed a brilliant career to do his part in the war and came home a wreck.

Yet, he, also, has been notified that he will receive nothing more.

Things like that leave you no comeback when people say the government hasn't sense enough to manage anything right.

There was fraud in the old system. It was disgraceful. But isn't there some way to prevent fraud without robbing honest men of their due? No great intelligence is required to see the difference between an unharmed grafter and a bed-ridden victim of the war.

Can't we think up some way to kill the rats without burning the cattle in the barn?

POLITICAL COMMENT

Taxes Reflect Trade Gain.

Houston Post.

Miscellaneous internal revenue collections were materially larger in recent weeks because of the returns from the tax on newly legalized 3.2 per cent beer, but beer alone did not account for the sharp increase in revenue flowing into the Treasury. Revenue from beer will continue to increase and will be a bigger and bigger factor in providing for the expenses of the Government.

Advent of warmer weather over the country has brought augmented sales of gasoline, with accompanying increase in revenue from the Federal gasoline tax. Tobacco and other stamp taxes have produced much bigger returns in recent months. And then the tax on the transfer of securities has produced much more prolifically since the stock market became active. The many days when the turnover of stocks has run into millions of shares have been days of profit for Uncle Sam. He has been collecting a commission, as it were, on those sales.

Rural Areas and Repeal.

Kansas City Star.

Any calculation of the future progress of repeal now must take into account two things—the sweep of the movement in ten States that so far have voted and, more particularly, the surprisingly indifferent response of the rural areas to the dry cause. Of the ten States, all except possibly Michigan and more certainly Indiana, were concededly wet territory. The results were unexpected mainly with regard to the volume of repeal sentiment displayed. But the showing in the outstate or rural counties, practically without exception, has been clearly disconcerting from a dry standpoint.

Capt. Roosevelt.

Brooklyn Eagle.

Franklin Roosevelt would doubtless like to have his recreation on the sea unaccompanied by a fleet of escorts. The King of England can take the wheel of a racing yacht and sail away without being followed. But when the President of the United States heads Amberjack II out of Provincetown Harbor he is watched by a Coast Guard cutter, two destroyers, a small cruiser, a boatload of reporters and another boatload of photographers. When a President hooks a trout it is hardly news, but the spectacle of a President at the wheel and giving orders to a Corinthian crew is almost sensational in its absolute novelty. As a captain, Mr. Roosevelt can hold his own with any of the professionals along the New England shores.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THIS WAY OUT!

One of the main aims of the National Get-Uncle-Sam-Back-on-His-Feet act is to cut the throat of the cut-throat competitor.

• • • •

Over the door of American industry is to be the sign, "Chiselers Keep Out!"

• • • •

Under the New Deal the American manufacturer has got to make up his mind whether he wants to be man or insect.

• • • •

One of the great evils of American industry has been the presence in large numbers of the boll-weevil type of manufacturer. He ate so many holes in the fabric of national prosperity that it began to look like a life net.

• • • •

It was the golden age of the chiseler. He was on the buying end as well as the selling and caught in the middle as usual was the ultimate consumer foolishly believing that everything cheap was a bargain.

• • • •

The country was dotted with shops run by the Hookworm That Walks Like a Business Man.

• • • •

Too many people thought a successful manufacturing plant was an old barn full of time-payment machinery operated by children too young for kindergarten studies. Some of these factories had so many child laborers that they had to put Mother Goose rhymes on the pay envelopes to keep the kids interested.

• • • •

Things had reached a stage where people wishing to adopt babies ignored the foundling asylums and went to the nearest factory instead.

• • • •

Our civic leaders and our public men knew all about what was going on but in the boom era the national attitude seemed to be that business is business even when it is played under the rules of ice hockey.

• • • •

It is curious how conscientious and moral Americans can become once they all get suffering together in a national pain.

• • • •

But at last the sweatshop operator, the gouger and the chiseler are to be shown to the nearest exit. They are to be told definitely that there are rules in the game and that hurdling, thumbing and the use of elbows will not be considered clubby.

• • • •

The business man who behaves like a human being and operates his plant like a civilized male adult is to get a fair break, while the fellow who regards business as something that flourishes under a wet board will lose his operator's license.

• • • •

But he will have to be watched, even then. For he's the type who would steal another man's license plates.

DOESN'T BELIEVE IN SIGNS.

Well, speaking of the remarkable upturn in industry, President Roosevelt has certainly repudiated that old traffic slogan, "No Turns On Red."

Prof. Moley and Herbert B. Swope were rushed to the Economic Conference, possibly in the belief that what the situation called for was two good fast line plungers.

Avery Parks suggests that the purpose of Prof. Moley's trip is to explain to the conference what he thinks America thinks it thinks.

Death After Life Imprisonment of Old Ben, the Tiger, Evokes Sympathetic Comment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Poor old "Ben!" Few things have seemed to me more pathetic than the recent picture in The Post of this splendid old tiger and the story that he had finally found through death the liberation for which his free soul long yearned.

"Just an overgrown cat and friendly as a kitten," and yet condemned to serve a life term in a zoo cage, thousands of miles from his own land and kind, for no crime at all, but merely to afford human bipeds something to stare at!

And when pitiful little "Mickey Monk" bites one of a group of teasing children he is condemned without hearing as a "rogue monkey," without any defender appointed to ascertain what his provocation may have been.

The long, dark chapters of man's inhumanity to man are exceeded only by his inhumanities to defenseless so-called "lower" animals.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl

HAVE you noticed Station WLW, of Cincinnati coming in clearer lately? The station is testing out its 831-foot antenna tower, which is considerably higher than the Washington Monument, in fact is almost as tall as the Eiffel Tower.

The new tower is the first completed step in the 500,000-watt transmitter plant, now under way, which will make WLW, with the possible exception of a station which is said to be operating in Russia, the world's most powerful broadcasting station. Dr. Louis Cohen, recently returned from that country, declared that the Russian station is using 500,000 watts.

If so, it is considerably more powerful than any in this country, no station in the United States having exceeded 50,000 watts, excepting experimentally. XER, Dr. Brinkley's station across the Rio Grande in Mexico, is said to be using 80,000 and the Mexican government just issued a license for a 500,000-watt station at Matamoros, opposite Brownsville, Tex.

The new 831-foot antenna tower has brought increased efficiency to WLW's present 50,000-watt transmitter. Powel Crosley jr., in the light of messages he has received from all parts of the country, believes the tower has increased the signal strength of WLW from 50 to 100 per cent.

For the benefit of those desiring to tune in to ses if they can notice a difference between the old and new WLW set-ups, the frequency of the station is 700 kilocycles. It may be located on the dial about half way between WMAL, Washington, and WJZ, New York. WLW comes in at almost the same place as the Naval Station NAA, Arlington, the two being only 10 kilocycles apart.

JUDGE EUGENE O. SYKES, chairman of the Federal Radio Commission, who was recently appointed by President Roosevelt to head the United States delegation to the North American wave-length conference opening in Mexico City July 10, will be interviewed by Martin Codel, publisher of Broadcasting Magazine, over WJSV Wednesday night at 10 o'clock.

POTASH AND PERLMUTTER, heroes of six successful plays produced all over the world, three motion pictures and countless short stories, will go on the air over WMAL in a series of triweekly dramas, beginning tonight, at 7:30 o'clock. Potash and Perlmutter will be heard each Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

"Fanchon the Cricket," a drama by the celebrated French writer, George Sand, will be the Radio Guild presentation over WMAL at 3 p. m.

A report of the Cotton Week drive will be made this noon over WMAL in the Farm and Home Hour. Dr. J. A. Evans, associate chief of the office of cooperative extension work, will speak over the same station at 10:30 o'clock tonight.

Gen. W. I. Westervelt will discuss the cotton situation over WJSV at 10:15 p. m.

AL JOLSON, native Washingtonian, will be guest star when Paul Whiteman inaugurates a new series of weekly two-hour programs, tonight at 8:30. The first hour will be carried over the WEAF network, mostly New England stations, and does not include WRC. The second hour will be heard in the New York Metropolitan area only through WEAF. Whiteman will direct the programs and present his featured performers including Jack Fulton, Ramona, Peggy Healy, Roy Bargy, Al Bary and the Rhythm Boys. Deems Taylor, opera composer and musical commentator, will act as master of ceremonies.

M. Bazarova, formerly of Washington, male soprano, has been engaged for a fourth session to broadcast from station WCFL in Chicago. Bazarova will, beginning next Monday, sing daily at 2:15 p. m. except Sundays.

WCFL broadcasts on a frequency of 970 kilocycles and may be found on the dial between WRC and KDKA.

"How the New Deal Affects Washington" will be explained by Sylvan King over WOL at 7:15 o'clock.

Two radio installations in New York City recently, one in a private home and another in an office, each cost about $3,000. This included loud speakers in the various rooms and remote control devices to operate them from a master receiving set.

POSTMASTER GENERAL JAMES A. FARLEY will tell the delegates at the twenty-ninth annual convention of the advertising federation tonight at Grand Rapids, Mich., about "The New Administration to Date."

The Gypsies, now in their tenth year on the air and one of radio's oldest features, are in Chicago and will give their weekly broadcasts from the fair grounds each Monday evening, beginning next week.

The Gypsies are going to present a series of twice-a-day concerts for visitors to the A. & P. Pavilion, located on the fair grounds. During this time the Gypsies' regular weekly radio concerts will be broadcast from the pavilion, where they may be attended by fair visitors. They will be heard tonight from the NBC studios in Chicago (WRC, 8 p. m.).

"MAKE July 4 Fireproof" will be the plea of William H. Rodda, chairman of the fire waste contest committee, Washington Chamber of Commerce tonight. (WMAL—8 o'clock.)

NOW PLAYING

LOEW'S PALACE

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By Mark Barron.

NEW YORK—When police censors raided that nudist gathering in a gymnasium in the West Forties several fortnights ago, it proved unusually embarrassing to one quite respectable housewife.

Three days a week the hall was used as a meeting place for the nudist group, but on the other three days regular gymnasium classes were conducted there for overly plump women who wished to reduce. Those in the reducing classes had no knowledge of the nudist trend that prevailed on the days they weren't there.

When this particular husband read newspaper accounts of the nudist raid, he immediately confronted his wife with the accusation that she had been participating. She had to wangle an affidavit from the gym instructor to convince her helpmeet that her callisthenics classes had been thoroughly and properly clothed.

"All That Glisters"—

Howard Benedict, the all-American lacrosse player who became a Broadway publicist, got quite upset when he was suddenly wedded the other night.

When the minister reached the ring part of the ceremony, he recited something about "this ring symbolizes the marriage, in that it has no end, and the marriage shall be as pure and precious as the metal in the ring."

The groom was upset because he suddenly realized that his wedding ring was an inexpensive, pewter ornament purchased at the last moment in a 10-cent store.

The Pay-Off.

New York taxi drivers are a reckless, generous band of Robin Hoods. One of them discovered that a good deed he performed three years ago paid a worthy dividend when he became enmeshed in trouble the other morning.

It was late at night in 1930 that this driver was approached by a man on upper Lexington avenue. "Driver, I wonder if you would help me out?" besought the troubled fellow.

"I've run out of money, and I can't get to my home in Brooklyn. Would you take me there, and then come by my office tomorrow to get your fare?"

"Okay, buddie," agreed the driver. "Hop in."

Recently this driver was charged with several infractions of traffic rules, and he was summoned to appear for a hearing before a taxi inspector. Undoubtedly, it meant that his license would be withdrawn.

When he appeared for the hearing, the driver was pleasantly surprised to discover that the inspector was the stranded passenger he had accommodated three years before. The grateful inspector gave him a suspended sentence.

The Boswell sisters are off to London.

Two of the town's major bankers were born in Germany, Otto Kahn in Mannheim and Felix Warburg in Hamburg.

NATS BEAT TRIBE TWICE, GAIN AS YANKEES DIVIDE

30,000 in Cleveland See Whitehill Take 1st, 9-0; Burke Wins 2nd, 10 to 1

Ferrell Knocked Out After Capturing His Fifth Straight.

New York Now Trails Washingtonians by 1 1-2 Games.

By Shirley L. Povich
(Sports Editor of The Post).

MUNICIPAL STADIUM, Cleveland, Ohio, June 25. The winning streak of the Nats and the loosing streak of the Indians collided this afternoon and neither was fractured, to the unbridled sorrow and boos of 30,000 Cleveland fans who sat painfully through a double-header.

They saw the Indians' attack reduced literally to next to nothing. Only one run was produced by the Cleveland Club during the afternoon, if my arithmetic is correct and if that is not next to nothing, overlooking fractions, George Washington was a British spy.

It seems that the Nats broke the old Washington custom of splitting double-headers. Five times previously this season the Nats had managed nothing but a stalemate out of their twin bills. But today they were hell-bent for two. They're still batty on the subject of base hits, rapping out 14 to provide the motive power for a 9-to-0 victory in the first game and spraying 15 hits over the lot to fashion a 10-1 triumph in the second.

Gain Full Game on Yankees.

Winning two to the accompaniment of the Yankees' division of a double-header at Detroit, the Nats bounded farther into the lead and now top New York with a game and a half with today's developments representing the gain of a full game.

Perhaps I should have mentioned before that Earl Whitehill hung up his second consecutive shut-out victory in the first of the day's games. The Indians, like the White Sox, were supposed to murder left-handed pitching, but they didn't even commit simple assault on Whitehill, who daubed them with the same score by which he won at Chicago late last week.

The Injuns were held to five hits by Whitehill, who permitted only two men to reach third base.

Ferrell's Win Streak Is Broken.

But there was a streak broken today. Wes Ferrell had won five straight up to 1:30 this afternoon, but at approximately 1:37, when the Nats had scored a run in the first inning, he no longer had his winning streak, as Whitehill and other developments proved.

And then Bobby Burke, of all people, another southpaw, by the way, limited the Injuns to eight hits in the second game, was never in danger after the first inning and otherwise surprised everybody, including Walter Johnson, who was taking a deal of punishment on the coaching line for the Injuns.

What proved to be the winning run of the first game was scored by the Nats in the opening inning, following a meeting of the Cleveland minds in short center field, where Outfielders Galatzer and Averill and Infielders Cissell and Kickerbocker gathered to discuss the rapidly descending pop fly of Joe Cronin. They failed to arrive at any definite conclusion and when the ball dropped at their collective feet for a two-base hit, Goslin, who had singled with two out, scored all the way from first base.

Sewell Scores, Lead Goes to 2 to 0.

The pungent aroma of horse shoes also accompanied the Nats second run. With two out Shortstop Bill Knickerbocker kicked Sewell's grounder into right field. He scored

Foxx's 16th Gives Macks Even Break

White Sox Win First, 3 to 2, Lose Second, 5 to 3, in Tenth.

CHICAGO, June 25 (A.P.).—Jimmy Foxx's sixteenth home run of the season, in the tenth inning with Ted Lyons pitching and Bob Johnson on base, gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 5-to-3 victory in the second game of their double-header today after the White Sox had won the opener, 3 to 2.

Rube Walberg went the route for the A's in the second game to turn in his season's second triumph, but was in considerable trouble during the late innings. The Sox filled the bases on him in the tenth, but he fanned Pinch-Hitter Rhyne to retire the side.

Johnson opened the winning tenth with a double and was sacrificed to third by Coleman. Manager Fonseca elected to have Lyons pitch to Foxx and the A's first sacker slammed the ball into the upper deck of the left-field pavilion.

The White Sox broke a five-game losing streak in taking the opener. Shut out by George Earnshaw until the eighth, they pounced on him for four hits and all their runs in that frame. Three of the hits were by former members of the A's. Haas and Dykes singled and Simmons doubled. Dykes' single drove in Appling with the winning run

Allen, Yank Pitcher, Suspended After Row

Detroit, June 25 (A.P.).—Johnnie Allen, starting New York pitcher in today's first game of a Yankee-Detroit double-header, is slated for several days of enforced vacation for roughing Umpire Hildebrand in the fifth inning after two close decisions had gone against the Yanks in that inning.

Only Lou Gehrig's quick work in seizing the flailing arms of Allen saved Hildebrand from at least a few punches.

Gerald Walker beat Allen's throw to first and Allen protested to Hildebrand. A few minutes later, Owen was trapped between second and third, but was called safe when he slid back to second.

Allen rushed to Hildebrand and shook him violently, but was seized by Gehrig as he apparently wound up for more serious personal violence.

Then began Allen's slow march to the clubhouse, receiving generous ribbing from the Tigers as he passed their dugout.

Labarba Recovering From Eye Operation

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—Fidel Labarba, former world's flyweight champion, is a patient in Medical Center, well on the road to recovery from an operation on his left eye, it became known today.

The boxer told the Associated Press today the operation, performed last Thursday by Dr. John Wheeler, had corrected an injury to his eyelid and that he was "feeling fine now." He expects to leave the hospital Tuesday or Wednesday.

BOLT KILLS GOLFER.

Detroit, June 25 (A.P.).—Struck by a bolt of lightning while playing golf at the Middle Belt golf course Sunday forenoon, Harry H. Jackson, 42, of Detroit, was killed instantly. So severe was the shock that Jackson's shoes were torn from his feet and buried in the ground.

Yankees Lose And Win in Detroit

Drop First by 6 to 5 in 12 Innings, But Cop Second, 3-0.

28,000 See Twin Bill; Allen Chased for Roughing Umpire.

DETROIT, June 25 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees lost ground in their battle to regain first place in the American League standings today by dropping a 12-inning thriller to Detroit, 6 to 5, although the Yanks came back to win, 3 to 0, in the aftermath, which was cut to six innings by darkness. Washington's Nationals, league leaders, gained a full game by winning a double-header.

The Yanks bunched their run-making in the fourth inning in each game. New York got only nine hits in the long first game off Bridges and Fischer.

An error by Crosetti at second paved the way for the Tigers' winning run in the first game. He let Charley Gehringer's smash through him for two bases and Greenberg's single ended the game.

Johnnie Allen Chased In First Game.

Johnnie Allen was chased in the fifth inning of the first game for roughing Umpire Hildebrand after two close decision had gone against the Yanks.

Twenty-eight thousand, a season record, saw the games.

Merger of Boxing Units In America Is Proposed

Rome, June 25 (U.P.).—The sixteenth congress of the International Boxing Union, which opened at the National Stadium here today, adopted a resolution urging that the various boxing organizations in the United States unite into one American group, which will be authoritative on all matters concerning the ring.

It was pointed out that the rest of the world finds the condition in America confusing, with the National Boxing Association and the New York Boxing Commission, as well as several other State commissions not in unity on champions or other boxing matters.

Sharkey 7-5 Choice Over Carnera

Italian Giant Improved; 60,000 Crowd Is Expected.

By Herbert W. Barker.

NEW YORK, June 25 (A.P.).—Jack Sharkey will defend his heavyweight championship Thursday night against the biggest challenger in the history of the sport, Primo Carnera, who packs 262 pounds on his 6 feet 6½-inch frame.

Regarded purely as a "fistic freak" when he first invaded American rings three years ago, Carnera has progressed to the point where his own improvement and a peculiar promotorial situation have earned for him a "shot" at the biggest prize in boxing.

The impetus given the sport by the recent spectacular duel between Max Baer and Max Schmeling has led Madison Square Garden to prepare to welcome a crowd of about 60,000 to its outdoor bowl in Long Island City and predict receipts of close to $350,000. With fair weather, those estimates appear justified. A part of the receipts will go to the milk fund.

Sharkey Slight Choice To Win.

Although Sharkey decisively whipped the giant Italian in 1931, the champion is favored by odds of no better than 7 to 5 this time. Two factors enter into this situation. The Boston sailor is nearly 31 years old and can't be expected to go on indefinitely. Carnera, on the other hand, is a much better fighter than he was two years ago. The giant Italian, amazingly fast for one of his bulk, has learned much since he battled Sharkey at Ebbets Field. He still punches without snap, but the sheer weight of his arms is enough to wear down the average fighter over 15 rounds.

It is, in fact, on Carnera's strength that his backers chiefly are depending. They figure Sharkey will gain a lead in the first 10 rounds, but that the champion will be badly tired and an easy mark for Carnera's punches in the last five rounds.

By his own word, Sharkey is determined to retire from the game at the end of this season. But that does not mean he holds the title cheaply. He expects to win and then defend the title for the last time against Baer in September, probably under Jack Dempsey's promotion.

Carnera Owes Opportunity To Dempsey.

It is to Dempsey, indirectly, that Carnera owes his chance at the title. When Dempsey tied up Schmeling and Baer to contracts, he left the Garden small ground on which to roam in search of an opponent for Sharkey. Finally, Carnera was selected as the one remaining available heavyweight who might give the champion a tussle and, incidentally, draw a crowd.

Sharkey, at Orangeburg, N. Y., and Carnera, at Pompton Lakes, N. J., went through boxing drills today and are just about ready to call it quits.

Corbett and Wife Abducted, Robbed

Chicago, June 25 (A.P.).—Young Corbett, former welterweight boxing champion, and his wife were abducted today as they started to drive from Chicago to their home in Fresno, Calif. The fighter, who lost his title to Jimmy McLarnin on May 20, had spent a week here at the World's Fair.

Corbett's car was forced to the curb by the robbers' automobile. The leader of the holdup men, brandishing a sawed-off shotgun, forced his way into the back seat of Corbett's car while his accomplice took the wheel. With two more men trailing in their machine the boxer and his wife were driven through a West Side park, while they and their luggage were searched.

After taking $225 in cash from Corbett and two diamond rings valued at $500 from his wife, the gunmen abandoned the couple in their car, throwing away the keys. The victims finally made their way to a police station and reported the matter.

U. S. Ryder Cup Golf Team To Open 2-Day Test Today Against Confident British Foursomes Are First Scheduled; Singles Tomorrow.

5,000 See Americans in Practice Round at Southport.

SOUTHPORT, England, June 25 (A.P.).—Capt. Walter Hagen led his American Ryder Cup golf team through a final practice session today for the two-day international test against Great Britain's picked professionals starting here tomorrow.

A blazing sun and winds off the Irish Sea made the Southport and Ainsdale Club's 6,487-yard, par 73, layout almost as fast as an American course in summer. Old England seemed to be trying to do her best to reproduce the scorching weather which wilted the British team at the Scioto Club in Columbus, Ohio, two years ago and gave the Americans a runaway victory, 9-3.

J. H. Taylor, famous old champion and nonplaying captain of the British team, who has been handling his squad like a stern schoolmaster, supervised their final practice shots today almost before the Americans were out of bed.

British Are Confident Of Victory.

If training and confidence will win golf matches, Great Britain has the 1933 series in the bag. Abe Mitchell, Percy Alliss, Charles Whitcombe and other British nominees have been playing morning and afternoon over the Southport course under Taylor's driving hand for a week. They've tried every possible shot to the greens. Before breakfast they've been out on Southport Beach for workouts.

English critics used to say Americans took golf too seriously and trained and practiced too arduously, instead of playing for the love of the game, but no such criticism can be leveled against Hagen's team, which will play four 36-hole foursomes tomorow and eight 36-hole singles Tuesday. The Americans have had only three full days at Southport, but it has been workmanlike preparation, with no foolishness.

Today they paired off in the formations they'll take tomorrow, with Hagen and Gene Sarazen playing Olin Dutra and Denny Shute, Ed Dudley and Bill Burke playing Craig Wood and Paul Runyan, and Horton Smith and Leo Diegel, who were left out of the foursomes in order to concentrate on the singles Tuesday, playing along with the latter foursome.

Twice around the long stretch of Southport sand-dunes they went and at the finish Hagen said they were satisfied American golf would maintain its high reputation in these islands.

Dutra, Hagen, Sarazen Play Well.

Scores meant nothing for many shots were replayed, but Dutra, Hagen and Sarazen were playing well

Four Nats on Star Team of Johnson

Special to The Washington Post.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 25.—There was handshaking all around when the Nats arrived at their Cleveland hotel this morning with Walter Johnson there to greet them.

"How about lending me a few hitters, Joe?" Johnson asked Manager Cronin with a broad smile.

"Sorry, I can't spare 'em, Walt," said Cronin with half a laugh.

And then in a magnanimous gesture, Cronin told his former boss, who is now managing the Indians, "Tough that we couldn't hit for you like that last year."

Johnson held court in the lobby. "The funniest thing I've seen this season is the way they ignored Ossie Bluege on the American League all-star game for the World's Fair. That's an insult.

"Bluege's so far ahead of Dykes, Higgins and the rest of 'em they've named it's no contest. Connie Mack asked me what my choice for an American League line-up would be. I didn't forget Ossie."

Johnson selected as his batting order for the American League team the following: Manush, left field; Gehringer, second base; Ruth, right field; Simmons, center field; Gehrig, first base; Cronin, shortstop; Cochrane, catcher; Bluege, third base; Crowder, pitcher. Utility—Foxx, Chapman, Lazzeri, Dickey. Reserve pitchers—Grove, Gomez, and Ferrell.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Cleveland, Ohio, June 25.

SEVEN straight victories have been accumulated by the Nats in their current winning streak, but going back a bit farther we find they have won fourteen out of fifteen since losing the first game of a double-header in Boston on June 8. Not bad; not bad!

The Nats are getting a great kick out of leading the league. Certain faces that haven't been creased by a smile in years are now beaming. Even Al Crowder is rid of that faraway look.

Joe Cronin has the club hustling like a man who has just hopped off the Twentieth Century Limited with full steam up.

In the second game today when Bobby Burke was in difficulty with the bases full and only one out in the first inning, Cronin rushed in and gave him several comforting slaps on the back with one hand. With the other, unknown to Burke, he was motioning for McAfee to warm up faster in the bull pen.

In view of the success of Whitehill and Burke, Walter Stewart, the third left-hander of the Nats, will see duty in the series.

Al Crowder turned up with a sore arm this morning and forewent his regular turn, but probably will face the Tribe tomorrow.

Walter Johnson was a pathetic figure in the first-base coaching box as the Nats pummeled his pitchers. The Tribe won six out of seven after he took the club over and then went into a tailspin. They've now lost seven out of eight.

And one week ago today, two of Cleveland's pitchers turned in a pair of shut-outs against the Boston Red Sox.

The Wolves in Cleveland are the most voracious in the circuit. They were booing the Tribe as early as the second inning of the first game.

Only Wes Ferrell escaped their jeers. Eddy Morgan was their particular target. Especially after he got his feet tangled in Kuhel's single that drove in two runs.

Before today only one southpaw had lasted nine innings against the Indians. But their impressions of Whitehill and Burke ought to be lasting.

The reason that Eddy Morgan plays first base most of the time for the Indians is Harley Boss. Johnson's patience with the slow-thinking Boss was virtually exhausted the other day when Boss ran into Cissell's single between

GODWIN AND HORN MEET IN TWIN CITY FEATURE TONIGHT

Trader Avers He'll Beat His Foe

Manager Points to Recent Defeat of Norman Conrad.

Gomer Is Substituted for Wright, Meets Maxie Koshover.

By Lewis F. Atchison.

ACCOMPANIED by his manager, Jerry Conway, and trainers Charley Horn, the up and coming youngster from the big stem, arrived in town last night and immediately shattered all precedent by refusing to predict how badly he will beat Bob Godwin tonight at Twin City Arena, when they get together for their 10-round session.

The Trader looks like a big overgrown kid, with a powerful pair of shoulders that bespeak the profession he is following at the moment. He shook hands all around and left the sports department completely helpless for 15 minutes while the boys were straightening out their crushed digits when someone mentioned the powerful grip, he just smiled.

Conway, like all managers, claimed the fight for his boy about the seventh round. "Charley doesn't start fast," he said. "He coasts through the early rounds and when the other party shows signs of tiring he steps in and puts the old plaster on their chin."

Clippings Hail His Victory.

Conway's pockets bulged with clippings of "Trader's" recent fights, and unless the sports editor of the Wilton (N. H.) Daily Eagle was fibbing, Horn's victory over Norman Conrad must have been a good one.

"Trader" was acting like the perfect gentleman that he is until the eighth round, when Conway opened up with a barrage of ugly words. Then Horn lost his temper, waded in and socked the Wilton lad with everything but the goal post and won in a walk.

Although the odds on Godwin remain at 2-1, Horn expects to win the duke tonight, although refusing to make rash statements about the margin of victory. He is comfortably confident.

Meanwhile, rumors were buzzing around Herald Harbor in conjunction with the receipt of a letter by Godwin from Pa Stribling, father and mnager of "Young" Stribling, offering "Pa" Godwin $25,000 for his son's contract.

Is Planning to Take Foreign Tour.

The offer sounded incredulous, but the documentary evidence was at hand with Stribling's reasons for wanting the lad. He is planning a tour of Australia and Europe, and points out that he can pick up a nice piece of change with the boy.

One change has been made in the preliminaries for tonight. George Gomer has been substituted for Carey Wright. He meets Maxie Koshover in a six-rounder. Ray Bowen tackles George Harmon in the six-round semifinal and Doug Swetnam opposes Sammy Lucas in another six. Bill Bullock and Tad Lewis will open the show with a four-rounder.

Around the ring selections—Godwin over Horn, Bowen over Harmon, Koshover over Gomer, Swetnam over Lucas and Bullock to beat Lewis.

RYDER CUP GOLFERS START PLAY TODAY

enough to hold anybody. A gallery of nearly 5,000 saw Dutra sink four putts from across the green during the round and cheered him just as though he were a native son. Hagen, just to show British crowds he hasn't lost his touch, rolled one in from 10 yards over the sloping surfaces of the eighteenth green.

The big crowds which watched practice today indicated the Southport Club's arrangements to care for one of the biggest galleries that ever attended golf matches in this country were well advised. The throng on the course today was larger than attends most important competitions in the south of England.

The pairings for tomorrow's two-ball foursomes:

Hagen and Sarazen vs. Alliss and Whitcombe.

Dutra and Shute vs. Mitchell and Arthur Havers.

Wood and Runyan vs. W. H. Davies and Syd Easterbrook.

Dudley and Burke vs. A. H. Padgham and Alf Perry.

Held out of foursomes along with Diegel and Smith were the other two British players, Allan Dailey and A. J. Lacey.

Leading British amateurs will referee the matches, and the Prince of Wales will present the international trophy to the winners at the conclusion of play Tuesday.

Dodgers Take Second To Divide With Pirates

Brooklyn, June 25 (A.P.).—After dropping the first game of a double-header to Pittsburgh, 5 to 2, when Leon Chagnon gave up only six hits, the Dodgers came back to win the second clash, 9 to 1, and take the series, three games to two. Walter Beck's pitching featured the nightcap as he granted the Bucs only four hits and one earned run.

The first frame was the decisive inning in each encounter.

first and second and was declared out.

Joe Cronin overran first base on his single in the third inning of the second game and was trapped by the return throw. Boss took the relay and tried to catch Goslin, who was dashing to the plate. Goslin was safe at home and Cronin was safe at second by the time Boss made up his mind to throw.

Bluege apparently was badly hurt when Craghead hit him on the leg in the second game. But when Burke singled into short left, Bluege came dashing home like a greyhound, so there must be some doubt about it.

Cleveland fans apparently have no use for the Yankees. They gave Manager Cronin a large hand every time he came to bat.

With Weaver still nursing a sore arm, there is a growing feeling that the other clubs will see a lot more of Bob Burke, especially after his light-hit effort today.

Annual Net Championships Open Today at Wimbledon

Vines and Mrs. Moody, Heading Strong American List, Will Have Stiff Opposition in Annual Competition.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 25 (A.P.).—Ellsworth Vines and Helen Wills Moody head a strong American cast in the all-England tennis championships opening here tomorrow.

Seeded first in a great international field in men's singles, Vines, the defending champion, will have strong support from Lester Stoefen, blond giant from Los Angeles; Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, and Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Moody, seeking the women's title for the sixth time, once more dominates her field, although the world's finest women players are assembled here to check her if possible.

Seeded behind Vines, in order, are Jack Crawford, of Australia, recent conqueror of Henri Cochet in the French hard-court finals; Cochet, H. W. (Bunny) Austin, of England; Sutter, Fred Perry, England; Jiro Satoh, Japan and H. G. N. Lee, England.

Vines is drawn in the upper quarter of the draw, where his most formidable opposition should come from Perry and Don Turnbull, of Australia. Sutter is in the last quarter, where also are Crawford, C. P. Hughes, of England; Christian Boussus, of France, and Bela von Kehrling, of Hungary.

Cochet, in the second quarter, finds Lee, Hans Timmer, of Holland, and Vivian McGrath, Australian youngster, blocking his path, while Austin, Satoh and Adrian Quist, of Australia, all are in the third quarter.

Trailing Mrs. Moody in the seeded list in women's singles are Dorothy Round and Margaret Scriven, of England; Mme. Rene Mathieu, of France; Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Calif; Hilda Krahwinkel, of Germany; Mlle. Jedwiga Jedrzejowska, of Poland, and Lolette Payot, of Switzerland.

Giants Add to Lead As Reds Bow Twice

New York, June 25 (A.P.).—The Giants took advantage of a day of idleness on the part of their closest rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, and added a full game to their National League lead today by mauling the Cincinnati Reds in two contests, 7 to 1 and 6 to 3. The double victory gave them a three-game margin over the Cards.

In the first game Hal Schumacher had an easy time winning his eighth game of the season. He yielded only six hits and one unearned run. The Reds have not scored an earned tally off the youthful right-hander in 26 innings.

Fred Fitzsimmons went the route for the Giants in the nightcap after a bad start in which the Reds scored two of their three runs.

Browns Beat Red Sox In Twin Bill, 10-6, 6-4

St. Louis, June 25 (A.P.).—The lowly St. Louis Browns rose almost from the American League cellar today, taking two games from Boston, just above them in the standings. A Brown rally in the eighth won the first game, 10 to 6. Blaeholder's steady pitching was largely responsible for the second, 6-to-4, victory.

Cubs and Braves Share in Twin Bill

Boston, June 25 (A.P.).—Manager Charlie Grimm of the Chicago Cubs benched himself before the start of today's double-header with the Braves and his mates hammered out a 12-3 victory in the first game of the twin bill. They dropped the nightcap, 4 to 3, however, and lost three of the four-game series.

Gabby Hartnett, behind the plate after a one-day lay-off, connected with a home run and three singles out of four trips to the plate in the opener and was paced by Bill Jurges, who also had a perfect day at bat in four times up.

The Braves came from behind and took the second in the last of the ninth. Hal Lee doubled and scored the winning run on a single by Dick Gyselman.

Mitchell and Mangan Enter Third Round in Title Event.

FAVORITES continued to dominate the situation in the second day's play of the annual District of Columbia tennis championship yesterday at Army and Navy Country Club's course, as Dooley Mitchell, ranking Washington player, and the veteran Tom Mangan, swept into the third round of the singles event.

Mitchell, who had a close shave in his initial match Saturday, eliminated Lynham, 6—1, 8—6, after being given many anxious moments in the second set. A violent rainstorm abruptly halted the tennis matches in progress in the afternoon.

Mitchell Extended To Win.

Mitchell was trailing Lynham by one game when the rain broke. When play was resumed, he had to struggle for dear life before defeating his opponent.

Mangan eliminated Ritzenberg, 6—2, 6—3.

First round—Martinez beat Koester, 6—1, 6—0; King beat Oldfield, 6—2, 6—1; Lake beat C. Yeomans, 6—2, 6—2.

Second round—Mangan beat Ritzenburg, 6—2, 6—3; Judd beat Phillips, 6—4, 6—3; Blade beat Evans, 6—2, 6—0; D. Mitchell beat Lynham, 6—1, 8—6; Bostrom beat O'Neill, 6—4, 1—6, 6—3; Blanchard beat Rutley, 6—4, 7—5; King beat Lewis, 6—1, 6—1; Hermann beat Garber, 6—2, 6—4; Staubley beat Randolph, 6—2, 6—2; Dorst beat Baker, 6—2, 4—6, 6—2.

NATS ADVANCE GAME BY CAPTURING TWO

on singles by Whitehill and Myer and the Nats had a 2-to-0 lead.

Came the fifth and Ferrell took a sound ferruling. The Nats boarded him for five runs and the ball game when the ace right-hander of the Tribe staff could not negotiate the third out.

The bases were filled when the nether end of the Nats' batting order proceeded to clean them. Myer's single and passes to Goslin and Schulte left the sacks congested and then Joe Kuhel rammed a sharp single through Tanglefoot Eddy Morgan at first base and two runs scored. Bluege singled to center, scoring Schulte and Kuhel, who was seemingly out at third on Vosmik's throw-in, kicked the ball into the dugout as he slid in feet first, picked himself up, and dashed home safely while Bluege galloped to second. Sewell scored him with the fifth run of the inning on a single to center.

Ferrell Is Relieved By Craghead.

That finished Ferrell, who left the game with the cheers of the 30,000 ringing in his ears despite his sad fate. Howard Craghead relieved him and got his bumps in the next inning after he walked Manush. Goslin pounded a double into left and Cronin rammed a double into right. The Nats had two more runs and their 9-0 lead.

While all this was taking place, Whitehill was tomahawking the Indians almost as fast as they appeared at the plate. Only one Injun reached third after the first inning.

The 15 minutes between games was given over to the tomfoolery of Al Schacht and Nick Altrock, assisted by Johnny Kerr and Mascot Jimmy Mahorney, but with the resumption of play for the second game the Nats wasted no more time and beaned Belve Bean for three runs in the first inning when the third out proved very elusive to the Cleveland hurler.

Between outs by Myer and Goslin, Heinie Manush singled. Cronin walked and the Nats had three runs for their first inning efforts when Schulte, Kuhel and Bluege rapped out singles.

Side Finally Retired On Double Play.

The Nats got Bean out of there in the third. Goslin and Cronin singled, Schulte grounded out, and Kuhel and Bluege singled, netting two runs. Sarge Connally pitched to Moe Berg and retired the side finally on a double play.

Cleveland knocked all shutout notions out of Burke's head when they scored a run in the fourth on Kamm's triple that bounded past Schulte. After three scoreless innings the Nats replied with a two-run stand in the seventh, revolving around Cronin's smashing triple to right center.

They boosted it to 10-1 in the eighth, Bob Burke driving in a run with a single and Manush escorting two home with a line triple to right.

But the Tribe went down fighting. With one out in the eighth, and trailing by 9 runs, Kamm walked. But nothing materialized.

ACES DOWN COLESVILLE.

Behind Esworthy's fine pitching the Gaithersburg Aces defeated the Colesville Cardinals by a score of 4-3 in a five-inning game, halted by rain, yesterday. Eagle, Beall and Howard led the attack.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: ARLINGTON PARK, JUNE 25.

Well friend, we shift over to old Arlington tomorrow after a fair meeting at Lincoln. Ended the session with two winners—Piecemeal and Cloud d'Or—but got little in the way of price. Tomorrow's card is one of the best of the season in this section. Fresh horses have been shipped from other courses and it looks like a good time will be had by all. Went deep into the time books today in an effort to get off with a flying start. Give these a chance. BILL.

FIRST RACE — KHAMAIN is a speedy youngster which goes around the business of training in impressive fashion. May outstep ESSIE WESSIE and DAWN CHILD to take the long end of this purse.

SECOND RACE — The flying ETCETERA will have to be beaten before another horse is credited with a victory here. And I don't believe ETCETERA will have to take the dust of this group. HOT SHOT ran a powerful race at Lincoln Fields and will not be far out of it tomorow. PORTMANTEAU for the show end.

THIRD RACE — TWISTED THREADS can better that effort, and improvement will win this race. Looks like ED LARK will be dangerous off that closing exhibition at the other course. TREK to take care of the others.

FOURTH RACE—RUSH HOUR is a streak away from the barrier and is in top condition. The Labrot representative appears to have an edge over the field. POPPYMAN and BOLD LOVER for the rest. Mud would make it any horse's race.

FIFTH RACE—What a field! I'd prefer to see the scratches before I went into any detail on this. However, inasmuch as the boss insists that I name three horses, here goes. I'll take INDIAN RUNNER, FAIRBYPAIR and GALLANT SIR.

SIXTH RACE—This looks like the one that SPRINGSTEEL has been threatening to take. The Labrot horse is good now and should lead these home. INLANDER gets in light and may do a lot of running to be close. Mud would help this one. MERRILY ON for the show.

SEVENTH RACE — EBONY LADY seems well suited for this race, and I'm stringing along. OPEN HEARTH, the big Maryland disappointment, for the place. SANDWRACK is over his head, but may save the show. A change in track conditions would aid FINGAL.

EIGHTH RACE — WATCH TOWER has all his speed and will be a tough one to beat in the final. OLD JUDGE and ISLAM shape up best of the others.

DOR-A's winning streak in the Capital City League was lengthened by another game yesterday as the suburbanites took the measure of the Federals by a 10-1 score. St. Joseph's sprang a mild surprise by nosing out the Griffith-Blue Coals, 7-6, and Stantons rammed a bitter pill down the collective throats of the Congress Heights Team in the form of a 9-3 defeat. Miller Furniture slugged its way to an 8-2 triumph over Woltz Photographers in the only other game played.

Bob Ruble's three-hit pitching paved the way for Dor-A's victory, while another hurler, Gordon Batson, led the Stantons to triumph, setting Congress Heights down with six well scattered hits.

Joe Mills continued his terrific slugging, banging out three hits, as St. Joseph's stopped the Griffs. The hero of the Millers' win was George Wood, slim portsider who gave only three hits to the Woltz sluggers.

Amateur Course Record At Kenwood Set by Hough

By Dave Herman.

ROYCE HOUGH, gangling shotmaker who was runner-up for the club championship at Kenwood, established a new amateur course record at his home layout yesterday, traversing the 18 holes in 70 to beat par and the competitive mark formerly held by Maury Fitzgerald by one stroke.

Hough was competing in a match play against par tournament when he shot his record-smashing round. A four handicap golfer, he finished 4 up on par to win first prize.

The professional record for Kenwood is 68. It was manufactured by the Black Scot, Tommy Armour, during the 1931 National Capital Open.

From tee to green Hough fired his shots true to their objectives. At the end of the ninth he had a 35, even par. Reaching the eighteenth he needed a par 4 for 69, but his second shot was short of the green, his approach 12 feet from the pin, and he missed his put for a 5. Hough did not have a three-putt green. He bagged birdies on the fifth, seventh, thirteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth.

Al Houghton, who played with Hough, set an encouraging example with his 33—34—67. Harvey Cooper and Dick Hubbard also were in the foursome.

Hough's Card.

Out:
Par 4 4 4 4 5 3 4 3 4—35
Hough 4 5 4 4 4 4 3 3 4—35
Par 3 4 5 5 4 4 4 3 4—36—71
Hough 3 4 5 4 5 4 3 2 5—35—70

B. E. Dennell was announced as the second prize winner in the Kenwood tournament. He had 78—7—71.

Earl McAleer, a southpaw golfer, turned the Tribal Bowl finals at Indian Spring yesterday into a complete rout by smothering Craig McKee, George Washington University star, by 9 and 8.

Dr. Larry Otell, Indian Spring Club champion, was in fine fettle yesterday over his home links, where he blasted out a 70, 1 below par. Playing the second nine first in company with J. W. Harvey, jr., M. Parker Nolan and Louis Fuchs, Otell came to the eighteenth (the 235-yard ninth in this case) with a grand chance of shooting a 68. A thunderstorm broke as he prepared to drive off, and Dr. Otell took a 5 on a par 3 hole.

Herman Shapiro defeated Gilbert Hahn by 1 up yesterday at Woodmont to enter the finals of the club handicap championship. L. E. Harris was 1 up on Melvin Kraft going to the thirteenth when a driving rainstorm forced them to postpone hostilities until next week.

In the sweepstakes, Stanley Glaser, with 90—21—69, tied for first prize with Gilbert Hahn, who had 83—14—69. A. J. Stephens, with 86—16—70, tied for second with William Lepian, who had 96—26—70.

The two-man championship at Manor was captured by Mel Keogh and Jack Tucker, jr., who defeated C. W. Schafer and Frank P. Smith, 3 and 2. Keogh and Tucker were 1 up at the turn.

Col. C. G. Storm, with 83—13—70, won top honors in the blind bogey at Manor. Tied for second were George Landick, jr., 86—10—76; R. P. Hollingsworth, 90—14—76, and W. A. Warthen, 90—14—76.

J. Raymond Dawkins, who has golfed with the Hon. Michael Scott, new British amateur champion, scored a fine 39—38—77 and showed an 11 handicap for a 66 net yesterday at Beaver Dam to win the Grosvenor Cup, donated by Gerald Grosvenor, well-known local business man.

A field of 100 competed.

Mr. Dawkins carried off his second prize of the day by winning the championship flight of the medal handicap tournament. Tied for second were F. M. Baggett, jr., 81—11—70; Jack Palmer, 82—12—70, and E. G. Moris, 72—12—70.

Results in the other flights:

Second flight—J. H. Allan, 82—16—66; L. A. Meany, 85—18—67.

Third flight—J. P. Vance, 85—20—65; D. W. Smith, 90—23—67; W. A. Johnson, 92—25—67.

Fourth flight—H. P. Brown, 92—26—66; R. E. Wever, 92—27—65; C. J. Warren, 94—26—68; Dr. D. J. Murphy, 97—29—68; F. J. Becker, 98—30—68.

Mrs. C. E. Purdy, with 42—9—33, won the blind bogey for women at Beaver Dam. Mrs. S. J. Savarese, Mrs. Mary Waldron and Mrs. R. C. Mitchell, each with a 34 net, tied for second.

George O'Neil, with 95—18—77, captured first prize in the blind bogey at Bannockburn.

Sandy Armour, Congressional pro, is creating quite a stir at the club these days with his subpar shooting. Saturday morning Sandy clicked off a 34-35—69 and he came back in the afternoon to tackle the first nine in 35.

Yesterday Armour played the first nine in 4-4-3 4-4-4 4-4-2—33, four below par.

Close to 25 professionals and their amateur partners will compete this afternoon, starting at 1:30, in the pro-amateur sweepstakes at Indian Spring sponsored by the Middle Atlantic P. G. A. It was announced that Cliff Spencer, Beaver Dam pro, would team up with John R. Miller, club champion, and Tony Sylvester, rotund Bannockburn tutor, would play with George Meese.

Competition will be resumed this morning at Army and Navy Country Club in the District women's first team matches. Kenwood and Columbia are tied for first place.

Mrs. Don Scott and Mrs. J. F. Gross, of Indian Spring; Mrs. Jerome Meyer, of Woodmont; Mrs. J. F. Dowdall, Mrs. H. A. Knox, of Congressional, are among the District women golfers entered in the Baltimore Country Club's invitation tournament at Five Farms Tuesday and Wednesday. Seventy-five already had entered.

Annapolis Nine Beats Union Printers Twice

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 25.—The Annapolis Baseball Team handed the Union Printers of Washington a doublet trouncing here today in games marked with heavy hitting on the part of the local nine. The score of the first was 14 to 2, while the nightcap was called on account of darkness at the end of the fifth with the count 6 to 3.

Myers poled out home runs in both games, while Oscar Johnson lined out a circuit drive and a double in one inning in the first game when the Annapolic Club batted around.

WASHINGTON MAID and Eastern A. C. tied for first place with the idle Montrose A. C. in the midget division of the Capital City League yesterday by winning over the Corbett A. C., 13-9, and Versis A. C., 13-4, respectively. In the third game of the program the Savoy A. C. upset the Potomac Fish Co., 6-5.

Washington Maid pounced on O'Brien and Castonguay for 19 hits in amassing a comfortable margin over the Corbetts. Lewis, with four hits, led the winners, while Jocobs was best for the losers.

Baker Is Effective In Pinches.

Baker's steady twirling in the pinches for Savoy saved the day. Wise socked a brace of doubles, but to no avail, for Potomac. Cohill, McDonough and R. DiGruhan paved the way for the Eastern victory with their long-distance clouting. The trio accounted for an even dozen bingles.

Half Ended; Goodacre's In Lead

Clarendon Wins and Creates Four-Way Tie for Second.

THE first half of one of the closest junior races on record in the Capital City League ended officially yesterday, with Goodacre's winning the right to meet the victor of the second half in the championship series by virtue of its fourth consecutive triumph, a 14-7 decision over Rinaldi Coal Co. Clarendon created a four-way tie for second place by upsetting Dixie Products, 6-3, in a hard fought game.

Although outhit by its rival, Clarendon made the most of its seven hits to trim the Dixies. The losers connected for 13 safeties, but were unable to fathom Claude Cowan's offerings after he came to the rescue of Ready. Wilson and Schwab led the winning attack with two hits apiece.

Cullen's Triple Feature Of Rally.

Dick Cullen's triple featured a Goodacre rally in the eighth inning that netted four runs and put the verdict under lock and key. Bohnke's three hits also came in handy for the restaurant men. Cecil Hale set Rinaldi down with seven hits and was never in danger. It was Goodacre's second straight shutout.

The Meanderer

Finds Inspiration in Music Shop Known to Washington for 70 Years.

Poking about Washington's fascinating shops to find material for readers of this corner is always a privilege. But not infrequently a shop owner or executive takes the Meanderer on a personally conducted tour of the shop, letting her see, consciously or unconsciously, what the shop and its contents mean to him; pulling aside curtains to show interesting things not meant for the casual shopper; unlocking locks that shut away treasures from the public gaze. On such occasions the Meanderer enjoys the fullest privilege, that of personal enjoyment combined with the opportunity to share with others who may want to poke about in just the same way.

Scene of Meanderings' report for today: A music house known to Washington for more than 70 years. Person in charge of shopping tour: Dynamic, white-haired musician, co-proprietor of the music shop, who with his brothers carries on a business made important to Washington by their father.

Snatches from Brahms, from Choppin, Lizst and others the Meanderer couldn't name—bits of reverie, a stirring march, a lilting waltz—all these and more were on this shopping program. For as the music house proprietor would throw open a grand piano to show the Meanderer its maker, and its cabinet work, and even its inner variations in workmanship, he would not leave the instrument without delightfully demonstrating its tonal quality. Included, too, was the music for the song, "Contentment," his own composition, dedicated to a personal friend who has achieved national reputation as a basso. Included as well, were hymns on the modern melodeon, a reproduction with much quaint charm and an instrument for which the music house finds good sale.

A song, a book, a pipe and the woman he loves—the order of listing may not be correct—are, above all other things, contributors to contentment, the poem that this Washingtonian has set to music, maintains.

Melba, Nordica, Josef Hoffman and dozens of other musicians have scratched their names on the autographed piano, a 40-year-old instrument of a famous make, which is a treasure the shop will never sell.

Castanets, drums, bells and even deep organ chords come from the very old music box in a beautiful case valued at $1,250 as a curio, more than a music-maker, though there is much to enjoy in its tones, always soothingly subdued.

Mutely testifying to the departure from the musical scene of the player piano, are rows of empty shelves in this music shop. The shelves used to be filled with player-piano rolls. A woman writer of detective stories, who is most successful and who makes her home in Washington, used to buy many rolls from these shelves.

But here are the actual shopping items that the Meanderer would list to show that she did not forget business while entertainment was so compelling:

Used pianos, which have been player pianos, selling for $50. Later, if the customer likes, this piano will be taken in trade to the value of $50 on a new instrument.

A most graceful new grand piano, of indubitably excellent lineage, has a cabinet in Adam design, faithfully executed. Its convenient length of 4 feet 6¾ inches has not affected its tonal quality, even to the most particular musician, unless his needs require the large instrument with large concert tone. This instrument has a most reasonable price.

The extraordinary piece of furniture which, when closed, seems to be a very good model of a Governor Winthrop secretary, is really a secretary with the usual desk, drawers and bookcase, but is also a piano and radio cabinet. The piano keyboard is arranged just under the desk lid. Its keyboard is necessarily limited to five octaves. In the limited housing spaces allotted to many persons today, this piano-bookcase-desk-radio cabinet may be a godsend.

In this piece of furniture just described the radio is relegated to the space beneath the desk and piano, where its usefulness is not limited and where it has no awkwardness.

This magic combination piece sold for $595 when first introduced about two years ago, but for about half that sum a customer may have one in this day of low prices.

The frequent purchases of phonographs prove that the radio has not completely wiped out the sale for such instruments. One of the most interesting of the phonographs will play 40 selections, or a total of 20 records, without attention. This model is expensive, but many phonographs, formerly high-priced, are selling for a mere song.

Culbertson on Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

722

A TRUMP SAFETY PLAY.

ONE of the things that gives to Bridge its universal appeal is the fact that even expert players may go wrong in their analysis of methods of play. There are many fine bridge players who are only superficial analysts. These players fail to go to the root of things. They decide that because a certain course would work in a given situation such a course should be followed in other situations which are almost, but not quite, like it.

In a recent team-of-four match in New York City, in which I was one of the players, the hand below was dealt, which presented a very pretty problem in trump management. In this hand North, by "unnecessarily" giving up a trick in trumps, could absolutely assure the making of four-odd. This line of play was followed in one room, while in the other a more dangerous and losing line was adopted. The hand was:

East, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

North: ♠ 4 2; ♡ A 9 8 7 6 4; ◇ K 9 3; ♣ A Q
West: ♠ K Q 8 7 6 3; ♡ 5 3; ◇ 8; ♣ K J 7 5
East: ♠ 9; ♡ Q 2; ◇ A J 5 4; ♣ 10 9 8 4 3 2
South: ♠ A J 10 5; ♡ K J 10; ◇ Q 10 7 6 2; ♣ 6

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1♡
Pass	1♠	Pass	3♡
Pass	4♡	Pass	Pass
Pass

The Opening lead was the club 10, upon which West played the King and North the Ace. The next lead was the club Queen, eliminating clubs from the declarer's hand. At this point arose the question which later brought about the discussion of methods of play. North could see his contract safe provided he did not have to lose more than 1 trick each in diamonds and hearts. The spade situation, of course, would take care of itself. Therefore, disdaining to play for five, Declarer now led a low heart to the King and returned the Knave, which was finessed, East's Queen winning. East was now in a quandary for a lead. Obviously the diamond situation was bad from his standpoint, so he chose to return the singleton spade. North finessed the Ten, and West won with the Queen. West also was in a predicament in finding a safe card to return, and eventually decided upon the return of the diamond 8. East won with the Ace, but that was the last trick available for his side, and thus the game contract was assured.

As the match hinged upon a very small margin, and the team which had played this particular hand lost, the discussion after play was over naturally turned to whether more could not have been made, and Mr. Oswald Jacoby expressed the opinion that the method of play here outlined was incorrect.

In the other room a man noted for his success at Howell match-point play was seated North, and his sole consideration was the question of top on the board, whether or not thereby he sacrificed the safe goal of game. As a matter of fact, by the method of play which he followed he risked and brought disaster in striving for an immaterial gain. The bidding followed the same lines. Again the club 10 was opened, and again North eliminated his second club. Without stopping to draw trumps, he now led a small spade from his hand and finessed the Ten, the Queen winning. West noted the drop of East's spade 9 and felt quite certain that his partner could ruff as, if North held a singleton spade, there would be no purpose in risking the loss of a trick in that suit. However, this could not bring about the defeat of the contract as West saw it, but if East could win a trick in diamonds and be forced to return a diamond, West could get either one or two ruffs and East could be assured of one. Therefore, the diamond 8 was returned. East, as hoped, won with the Ace, and in desperation returned the suit, West winning the trick with a small trump. Now a spade was led. East trumped and returned another diamond, upon which West cashed his last trump. The result was that the hand was defeated 2 tricks.

The main interest of the hand in the subsequent discussion was in the question of the time factor and the play of the trump suit. The line of play outlined in the first part of this article must assure the contract against any distribution. It is immaterial that North could have captured East's Queen, as the cards lie, and thereby have scored 30 points additional over the value of game. In Bridge, as in life, the main objective should be kept in view, and the players of either game should never wander into by-paths to gain possible victories at the risk of losing what is more important.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

If South is playing a contract at three notrump, which has been doubled by West, what discard should East make on the second heart trick, and why?

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

North: ♠ J 9 6; ♡ A 8 2; ◇ A K Q J 9; ♣ 10 6
West: ♠ A 10 7 2; ♡ K Q J 6 5; ◇ 10 8; ♣ 8 2
East: ♠ Q 8 5; ♡ 7; ◇ 4 3 2; ♣ A 9 7 [illegible] 4 3
South: ♠ K 4 3; ♡ 10 9 4 3; ◇ 7 6 5; ♣ K Q J

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

"CANCER."

YOU may suffer some indignation on this day. It is possible that you will find yourself in some quite unbearable situation due to the dishonesty or deceitfulness of another. Hold your tongue and do not try to fight your way out. You will probably have to compromise to make your point in any measure, but it is better to gain something instead of losing all.

The child born on this June 26 will have many inherent weaknesses of character. Rigid disciplining, proper guidance and the setting of a good example for him on all occasions, will make of him a person to be proud of. He will be a healthy individual, robust, and will enjoy sports of all kinds.

If June 26 is the date of your birth, you are a substantial person. Upright and honest, kind and understanding, loyal and true, sincere and frank, you always stand squarely for that which is right and fine. You meet every problem without flinching; you know when you are wrong and you are not afraid to admit it. On the other hand, when you are in the right you have the courage of your convictions and you do not hestiate to speak out. You are not one to oppress another when he is in the wrong; but at the same time you claim your just due even if it will inconvenience the other one. You are a man of your word and you stand by it; you expect others to do the same.

Born on June 26, you speak little to others of your home or your personal affairs; you keep business and home problems separate and distinct. Your wife or husband, as the case may be, knows you for a thoroughly reliable, true and faithful mate. You are not demonstrative in your affections. You are very thoughtful.

Osmena Rebukes Aguinaldo Stand

Malolos, Luzon (Monday), P. I., June 26 (A.P.).—Senator Sergio Osmena, speaking at this capital of the Filipino insurrection republic, today rebuked Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, former insurrecto president, for opposing the Hawes-Cutting independence act on the ground it does not grant immediate freedom to the islands. Thirty-five years ago, Osmena told a Filipino audience, Gen. Aguinaldo was willing to accept a protectorate under the United States Government.

Speaking on the same program, Manuel Roxas, speaker of the insular House of Representatives, said the pending offer of independence was evidence of American generosity.

Rival political leaders in the islands have agreed tentatively to abide by the result of the plebiscite on the question which would be held after the insular Legislature convenes July 17. Gen. Aguinaldo now is the sole outstanding advocate of rejection of the independence offer.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix
For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

MAXIMILIEN FRANCOIS ROBESPIERRE, French revolutionist whom historians gave chief credit for the reign of terror of the late eighteenth century when streets of Paris ran red with the blood of aristocrats, was a man of much different temperament when he was a young advocate in his native city of Arras.

He was admitted to the practice of law in 1781, at which time he returned from school in Paris to his native town of Arras. He was appointed as criminal judge early the following year. A rising young attorney, with a reputation for sound judgment, Robespierre soon resigned his position as judge rather than pronounce the death sentence on a condemned prisoner.

Strange as it seems, this same man a few years later was the fanatic who was most responsible for the French reign of terror, when hundreds of men and women were taken to the guillotine because they opposed, in fact or by birth, the revolution. Robespierre himself fell victim to the terror he created, and was executed.

* * * *

The sun, although many times larger than the moon, exerts only a comparatively small pull on the earth. This is explained by the fact that the sun is a much greater distance from the earth. The force of attraction between the two bodies varies inversely as the square of the distance between their centers.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

MYSTERIOUS MAN WHO WARNED BANK HEAD TO BE NAMED

District Grand Jury Hears Evidence in Park Savings Defalcations.

Identity of the mysterious Treasury Department official who enabled Robert Stunz, dead executive officer of the Park Savings Bank, to know when Federal bank examiners were about to examine the institution's books, is expected to be revealed by Wednesday at least, it was learned last night.

Alleged to have received $5,000 for the alarm, "The Campbells are Coming," the former Treasury official is said to be the brother of a man high in public life.

Grand Jury Gets Facts.

The District Grand Jury is now considering evidence collected by Federal and District authorities involving various infringements of banking laws. An indictment will be asked for the tip-off official. Six other persons are included in the evidence being presented to the inquisitory panel.

Three of the persons involved in the testimony are declared to have entered into an arrangement by which checks were "kited" and handled through the Mount Vernon Savings Bank. Two former minor employees of the institution and a customer are the individuals against whom indictments will be sought in the check raisings.

Insurance Covers Shortage.

Mount Vernon Savings Bank officials have emphasized that the amounts involved in the defalcations were just above $5,000 and stressed that this sum in no way affected the condition of the institution. The money was also covered by insurance, they added.

The Park Savings Bank shortage will be about $1,700,000 out of $4,500,000 deposits, it is known. Stunz, who shot himself in his home, covered up this shortage by adroit bookkeeping methods, it was said, under the security of advance knowledge of visits by bank examiners. The shortage was created by "wildcat loans" and various other loose banking operations.

3 Are Injured When Car Crashes Parked Machine

Three persons were injured early yesterday when an automobile driven by Aerie E. Hannah 43, of 801 Seventeenth street southeast, crashed into a parked car at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast.

Hannah escaped injury. Claude M. Hart, 34, of 1757 Park road northwest, and his wife, who were seated in the parked machine, were taken to Casualty Hospital. Both suffered severe back injuries. Frank Gresham, 51, of 531 Fourth street southeast, who was entering the Hart machine, received a fractured left arm and bruises.

Cry of "Mad Dog" Sends Terror to Church Street

"Mad dog!" This cry terrorized the 1600 block of Church street northwest yesterday as a large dog, frothing at the mouth, drove people to cover. Lamp posts, trees and other advantageous spots were occupied by colored persons who were perfectly willing to break "Shipwreck" Kelly's record if necessary.

The Third Precinct police responded to the call for help and the dog was shot. The precinct has no record of the dog having bitten anyone.

COPENHAVER TELLS CHRIST'S FEATURES

Value He Placed on Human Personality Outstanding Contribution.

"Christ's outstanding contribution was the value he placed on human personality," said Dr. John C. Copenhaver, preaching yesterday afternoon at the first service of the twenty-sixth summer season in Lincoln Park.

"When men began to learn the value of a human life they began to help rather than exploit humanity," Dr. Copenhaver continued.

The speaker, the pastor of the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church South, chose for his subject "Why I Believe In Jesus Christ." The service was held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. It was conducted by Mr. Page McK. Etchison, religious work director of the local Y. M. C. A. Dr. T. D. Gates led the singing and Mrs. Margaret R. Moffatt presided at the organ.

Medicine Inspired.

Dr. Copenhaver said in part:

"Modern medicine is largely an inspiration from Him. The hospital, orphan asylum, old folk's home and every institution for the relief of suffering mankind is born of Him. Literature, art and music are rich beneficiaries of His spirit. The nations who are most progressive and advanced are the ones most under the influence of His person. It is certain that if men would live by His precepts and example every evil thing that mars human happiness would be banished and the world would be a paradise.

"He is the most fascinating personality the world has ever known. Thousands of books have been written seeking to portray His life and estimate Him. They come a dozen or more a year, enemies and friends still trying to analyze Him, lured to their task by His mysterious and winsome personality. Gen. Lew Wallace studied the gospels to explode the myth about Jesus and fell an adoring victim to His charm and wrote "Ben Hur."

"Men have died for great leaders, but when the leaders died none died for them afterward. But men did not die for Jesus until He Himself died. His disciples forsook Him and left Him to His fate, but afterward all of the apostles died as martyrs except John, and he was exiled. And down through the centuries men have died for Him, and are doing so today. He fits so perfectly into our lives.

Religion Defined.

"He is the only person in history who is not local. Moses was a Hebrew, Mohammed was an Arabian, Buddha an Indian, Confucius a Chinese, but Jesus was the Son of Man. Because He is so spotless and perfect we find God in Him. He is just what we think God ought to be, and we cleave to Him.

"An American minister asked the great German theologian, Harnack, where the final authority lies in our religion. Where do we anchor our faith and respond with loving obedience. He replied, 'Where the Jesus of history and the Christ of experience meet.' That is, in the human life where the historical Jesus we meet in the gospels becomes the adorable one who lives in our hearts and saves us from sin and fills us with hope, peace and victory. He is not a dead person of history, but a live person of human experience."

POLICEMAN TO FACE COURT AS BANDIT AID

Patton Grilled About Other Than Filling Station Hold-up Wednesday.

Private John F. Patton, 26-year-old Tenth Precinct policeman, accused of complicity in a gasoline station robbery, will be arraigned on that charge in Police Court tomorrow morning, Inspector F. S. Burke, chief of detectives, said last night.

The patrolman was suspended Saturday night. He is said to have admitted his part in the hold-up. James Mason, colored, is also under arrest.

Meanwhile, Inspector Burke said Patton is being put through an intensive grilling with regard to other hold-ups and robberies. So far, it was learned, he has stoutly maintained that the hold-up for which he was arrested was his first try at crime.

Patton is said to have driven the getaway car for two Negroes when the Dome Oil Co. station, Sixteenth and Taylor streets northwest, was held up last Wednesday night. This is the crime in which he is being held.

The policeman was in his regulation uniform and was driving his own car at time of hold-up, it was said. He admitted getting $60 as his share of the $200 loot, Burke said.

Fechner Visits 5 Camps in Forests

Robert Fechner, head of the reforestation camps, paid a surprise visit to five camps in the Shenandoah Valley yesterday. He said the condition of the camps and the morale of the men were very encouraging.

His party left Washington early in the morning and arrived at Norris River Gap Camp in the midst of morning activities. With Lieut. Forrest J. French, he inspected the settlement until noon and remained for the Sunday midday meal.

Mr. Fechner motored up the Skyland trail to the new Bald Knob Camp, where the men were working on a new trail through the mountains. At Skyland Camp, further up the trail, he found a baseball game in progress between the Big Meadow recruits and a team from Luray. He also visited the camps at Big Meadow and Sperryville before returning to the city.

DREDGES LIFT BOAT BLOCKING CHANNEL

Oyster Schooner Is Floated, Then Towed to Point Out of Way of Traffic.

A sunken Eastern Shore oyster schooner, which had partially blocked Washington channel, was raised from the river off Hains Point yesterday by Government dredges, and towed to near Gravelly Point, out of the path of water traffic.

The schooner, the J. J. Underhill, owned by A. Katchum, of Crisfield, Md., was loaded with 25 tons of oyster shells being brought here for fertilizer manufacture.

The craft sank several days ago near Alexandria after a floating timber ripped a hole in its hull. The Firefighter, Fire Department tug, raised it and towed it to a point on the mud flats near Hains Point. There it was beached.

Later suction from a large steamer combined with high tide to draw the schooner back into the channel where it sank, only its masts peering above the water.

STORM COOLS CITY, BUT CAUSES HAVOC OF VARIOUS KINDS

Inch of Rain Falls, Stalling Hundreds of Cars and Breaking Mains.

A heavy rainstorm, breaking out of suddenly glowering skies yesterday afternoon, brought to Washington a big breath of cool air and .97 of an inch of rain.

The storm was accompanied by a dazzling display of lightning and several unusually reverberating thunderclaps. Hundreds of cars were stalled as a result of the heavy downpour, two water mains burst and the vicinity of Fifth and Ingraham streets northwest was again under several feet of water.

100 Motorists Trapped.

Approximately 100 motorists were trapped for some time beneath the railroad viaduct at Silver Spring, Md. About four feet of water rose in the underpass, wetting scores of ignition systems, and completely tying up traffic on the Seventh Street pike.

Cars were stalled at numerous points throughout the city. The American Automobile Association answered a near record of calls for assistance, as did other agencies.

The water mains burst at Delaware avenue and B streets southwest and in the 5400 block of Conduit road northwest, two considerably separated points. Details of Water Department workers were immediately dispatched to the scenes to repair the damage.

Ingraham Street Lake.

At Fifth and Ingraham streets northwest the street intersection was, as after heavy storms over the last several years, a regular lake. An hour afterward the water had receded through the overtaxed storm sewers, leaving a slimy coating of mud on sidewalk and highway.

The cellars of at least a dozen residences near the intersection were again flooded. Houses nearest the intersection, in all directions, again had basements almost entirely filled with water, damaging what little goods were stored.

Seized Driver Accused Of Fleeing From Mishap

Charges of reckless driving and failing to stop after an accident were lodged against Robert W. Horton, of 3043 N street northwest, by Bethesda (Md.) police yesterday, when it was alleged he sped away in his car following a collision with another machine at Derwood, Md.

Horton, police said, was driving his automobile when it struck the machine of Larue McDevitt on the highway near Derwood. The McDevitt car overturned. Five members of his family escaped injury. A police lookout resulted in Horton's arrest in Bethesda.

Passenger Robs Driver Of Taxicab: Gets $2.25

Lawrence Owens, 25, a cab driver, last night reported to police that he was robbed by a colored man, who hired his taxi at Tenth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest, and asked to be "driven around."

After driving some time, Owens reported, his passenger told him to stop at Sixth and R streets northwest. While changing a bill for his fare, Owens said, the man grabbed $2.25 and fled.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

HOLLYWOOD, it seems, has not proselyted to its pictorial and plutocratic purposes all of the major playwrights from whose pens the stage confidently expects many of its worthiest and most notable offerings to flow. A few of these gifted gentlemen still remain stanch in their fidelity to the living theater, and, according to authentic advices, are devoting the summer months to whipping into shape new plays to engage the interest of fall and early winter audiences.

Eugene O'Neill.

Eugene O'Neill, for example, is said to be maintaining a characteristic isolation on his estate at Sea Island, Ga., where he is composing a drama which is reported to be based on a gangster motif, and which, as a variation from "Strange Interlude" and "Mourning Becomes Electra," will be a play of normal length capable of being presented on either side of the dinner hour, but not of necessity both.

Robert E. Sherwood, author of "The Road to Rome," "Reunion in Vienna" and other sprightly contributions to an era that may not with propriety be referred to as Puritanical, is reputed to be hard at work in London upon the completion of a new serious play to be known as "Acropolis."

Elmer Rice, whose "Street Scene," "Counsellor-at-Law" and "We, the People," are still fresh in memory, plans a year of writing in Mexico and probably will not be represented by a new play on Broadway next season. This may be entirely as Mr. Rice himself wishes, since he is one of the few native playwrights who produce their own plays in precisely the manner they wish their own plays produced.

Maxwell Anderson, winner of this year's Pulitzer Prize award with "Both Your Houses," being a more than ordinarily prolific writer, is at work on two new dramas—one for each hand would seem to be the idea here—although, so far he has not deigned to disclose the nature of either. One of his recent, but unproduced works, "Hell on Wheels," is said to be spending the summer bouncing about among the managerial offices on the Way that is neither so Gay nor yet so White as it used to be.

George Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind, who preceded Mr. Anderson to the Pulitzer plum by a season with "Of Thee I Sing," are writing a sequel to that satirical lambasting of our governmental processes which, as everyone knows by now, is to be called "Let 'Em Eat Cake"—a title derived, I believe, from an aristocratic suggestion at the time of the French revolution when it was casually observed that the proletariat was without bread to appease its hunger.

S. N. Behrman, whose last work to be seen in the Capital was "Brief Moment," with Francine Larrimore and that spherical and sapient master of recumbent drollery, Mr. Alexander Woollcott, in the most memorable roles, while watching his current comedy "Biography," with Washington's own Ina Claire as star, outlast all of its contemporaries and pile up royalties on Broadway with one eye, with the other has completed another play that is expected to arrive behind the footlights possibly by September and with Alla Nazimova, possibly, in the leading role, this would be "Love Story."

Since Paul Green, another Pulitzer Prize winner with "In Abraham's Bosom" and more recently notable for his "The House of Connelly," has proved by lucrative employment fashioning gelatine dramas for the Hollywood cameras that his play "Potter's Field," which has been knocking around managers' offices for several years now, is not in any sense autobiographical, it seems likely that he will desert the film capital, come early fall, to see it actually acted in New York.

Thus is it demonstrated that the immediate outlook for solid theatrical nourishment, even in a period of penury, is not so disheartening as you had feared.

Once again the urgent need of printed programs in motion picture theaters is emphatically and embarrassingly made evident. I note in the week-end reviews that I referred to Vic Oliver's assisting artiste as Margaret Frank, whereas her name turns out to be Margot Crangle; Mr. Terrell made mention of the Kenner Sisters, instead of the Keller Sisters, and Mr. Melcher had something to say about Paul, instead of Jack, La Rue.

For myself, I can only say that I realized instantly that I should have had my good ear toward Mr. Oliver when he interrupted his soiled jocosities long enough to mention his partner's name!

Walter "Okay" O'Keefe, the contagiously cheerful chatterbox who is headlining this week's stage bill at the Earle, and Mrs. O'Keefe, the former Roberta Robinson, celebrated the first anniversary of their marriage in Washington Saturday. Their romance really was one.

Something over a year ago Louis Shurr, the theatrical agent who handled the affair of both Mr. O'Keefe and Miss Robinson, asked Walter if he would be Roberta's escort at a week-end party he was giving at the Atlantic Beach Club. Sunday night—as quick as that!—Roberta and Walter decided it was fate, phoned Roberta's parents and became engaged.

Learning that his fiancee's parents were planning an anniversary celebration for June 24, Mr. O'Keefe asked if they wouldn't like to make it a double anniversary for the rest of their lives.

And that's how it came about that last Saturday was the day!

The voice singing "Hold Your Man" from the screens of the Loew houses in a trailer heralding the coming of a picture by that name, in which Jean Harlow and Clark Gable are expected to repeat their joint success of "Red Dust," is owned by that favorite of Washington audiences, Morton Downey. Just how, or why, Mr. Downey got into it, is not disclosed by the vagrant typewriter that supplies this scintillant and surprising item.

The motion picture "box-office champions for May," based on the revenue they attracted to the key city box-offices during that month, as reported in the June 24 issue of the Motion Picture Herald, offer a record that is unique in many respects.

George Arliss.

Of the seven productions that earned a rating, none had been included among the champions of any earlier month; the seven represented only three producing companies and, except for the leader, all were tied for a theoretical second place.

The top-ranking picture was "The Working Man," starring George Arliss. The tied six were "Hell Below," with Robert Montgomery, Walter Huston and Madge Evans; "Looking Forward," with Lionel Barrymore and Lewis S. Stone; "Today We Live," starring Joan Crawford, with Gary Cooper and Franchot Tone; "Out All Night," with "Slim" Summerville and ZaSu Pitts; "Be Mine Tonight," with Jan Kiepura and Magda Schneider, and "Picture Snatcher," starring James Cagney.

Not that it matters, but there seems to be a little doubt in some quarters as to whether "Krakatoa," the title of the added screen feature at RKO-Keith's, is the name of a volcano or a bit of advice to a bashful young swain in a quandry about how to pop the question!

In either event, a violent eruption, in time, no doubt, is inevitable!

ZOO IS ARRANGING SPECIAL EXHIBIT OF BIRDS IN LEGENDS

Feathered Folk Immortalized by Writers to Be Exhibited Together.

Birds that were immortalized in the literature of Europe through the pens of authors and poets will be given their niche of fame in a special exhibit at the Washington Zoo arranged by Dr. William Mann, it was announced yesterday.

The jackdaw, bullfinch, goldfinch, nightingale, robin-redbreast and other birds made the subject of praise by inspired writers will be shown to acquaint readers with the appearance of the feathered animals.

Jackdaw is Thief.

Nesting in church towers and castles, the jackdaw is often taught to speak a few words and in the Ingoldsby legends stole a cardinal's ring and had a curse laid upon him. Known as a pilferer, the jackdaw was made the subject of numerous legends and fairy tales. The "Jackdaw of Rheims" also features the crow-like bird.

The nightingale, golden-voiced songster of history, was extolled by Shelley and many of his contemporaries. Chaucer, in his "Parliament of Fowls," mentioned a number of the birds in the exhibit.

Cage birds less popular than the melodious canary also will be shown.

Snake Eats Eggs.

Among the animal oddities that are expected to arrive at the Zoo is an egg-eating snake. Dr. Mann stated that he has never seen a live specimen, but that the animal swallows eggs and cuts their shell in two with vertebrae in its neck. The snake ejects the shell.

A "surprise package" from a friend in Honduras is also expected, Dr. Mann said. The package is on its way with contents unknown. An unusual baboon from Abyssinia is another arrival expected in the near future. Known as a colobus, the simian is a very delicate creature and requires special care en route from his native haunts.

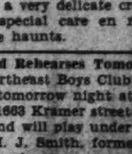

Band Rehearses Tomorrow.

The Northeast Boys Club Band will rehearse tomorrow night at the clubhouse at 1663 Kramer street northeast.

The band will play under the direction of H. J. Smith, formerly of the Marine Band.
